Our Changing Time In '69

What is it about a time, a place, or people? It is a mood which is set, the scenes created, or the memories held. All Cardinal years are filled with new experiences. We meet new people, gain new friends, accomplish a goal in learning. We set up traditions, to be seen or heard about in the years to come. But this is the year, 1969! Cardinals gained a new confidence in ourselves, our fellow students and our school as a whole. We hear the vibration of growth and purpose. East Central Cardinals visualize the welcome view of personal victory at long last met! So now we can see the coming of new goals to conquer—goals which started in the special year of our lives, 1969.

Did You Sense The New Look?

September 3rd: the very first day of school. That's when everybody began talking about a new look, taken from bubbling days of summer. Varsity athletes hurled it in the shape of a banner instead of bruises. Cardinal coeds sprinkled it in the classroom, and through corridors. Sophomores packed up their junior high days and brought the best to East Central. It was the new look, the new determination, coupled with new proof that 1969 was a record-setting year at EC. And now, let's review this exciting Cardinal year. Let's see the panorama of the sights and sounds of '69.

Look Around

"This is a different year" was the excited feeling which Cardinals felt from September through May, as they merged their loyalties and enthusiasms into the fighting spirit at East Central. Bright eyes and infectious smiles greeted one classmate to another—"Hi, Debbie—what's the good word?" The cheers at football games were a little louder, a tingle closer; classroom discussions were a warmer exchange of ideas, really "kicking it around." The Cardinal core continued to accelerate its companionship and unity, bringing "loners" to its heart. This was the feeling of a record year, 1969.

A Tingle of Excitement
Reflects the Exuberance of the Year.

Listen: did you hear a new ring in familiar voices,
Here and away?

E.C.'s American Institute of Foreign Study group pauses outside the American Embassy in Tunis, Tunisia during their tour of Africa and Italy.

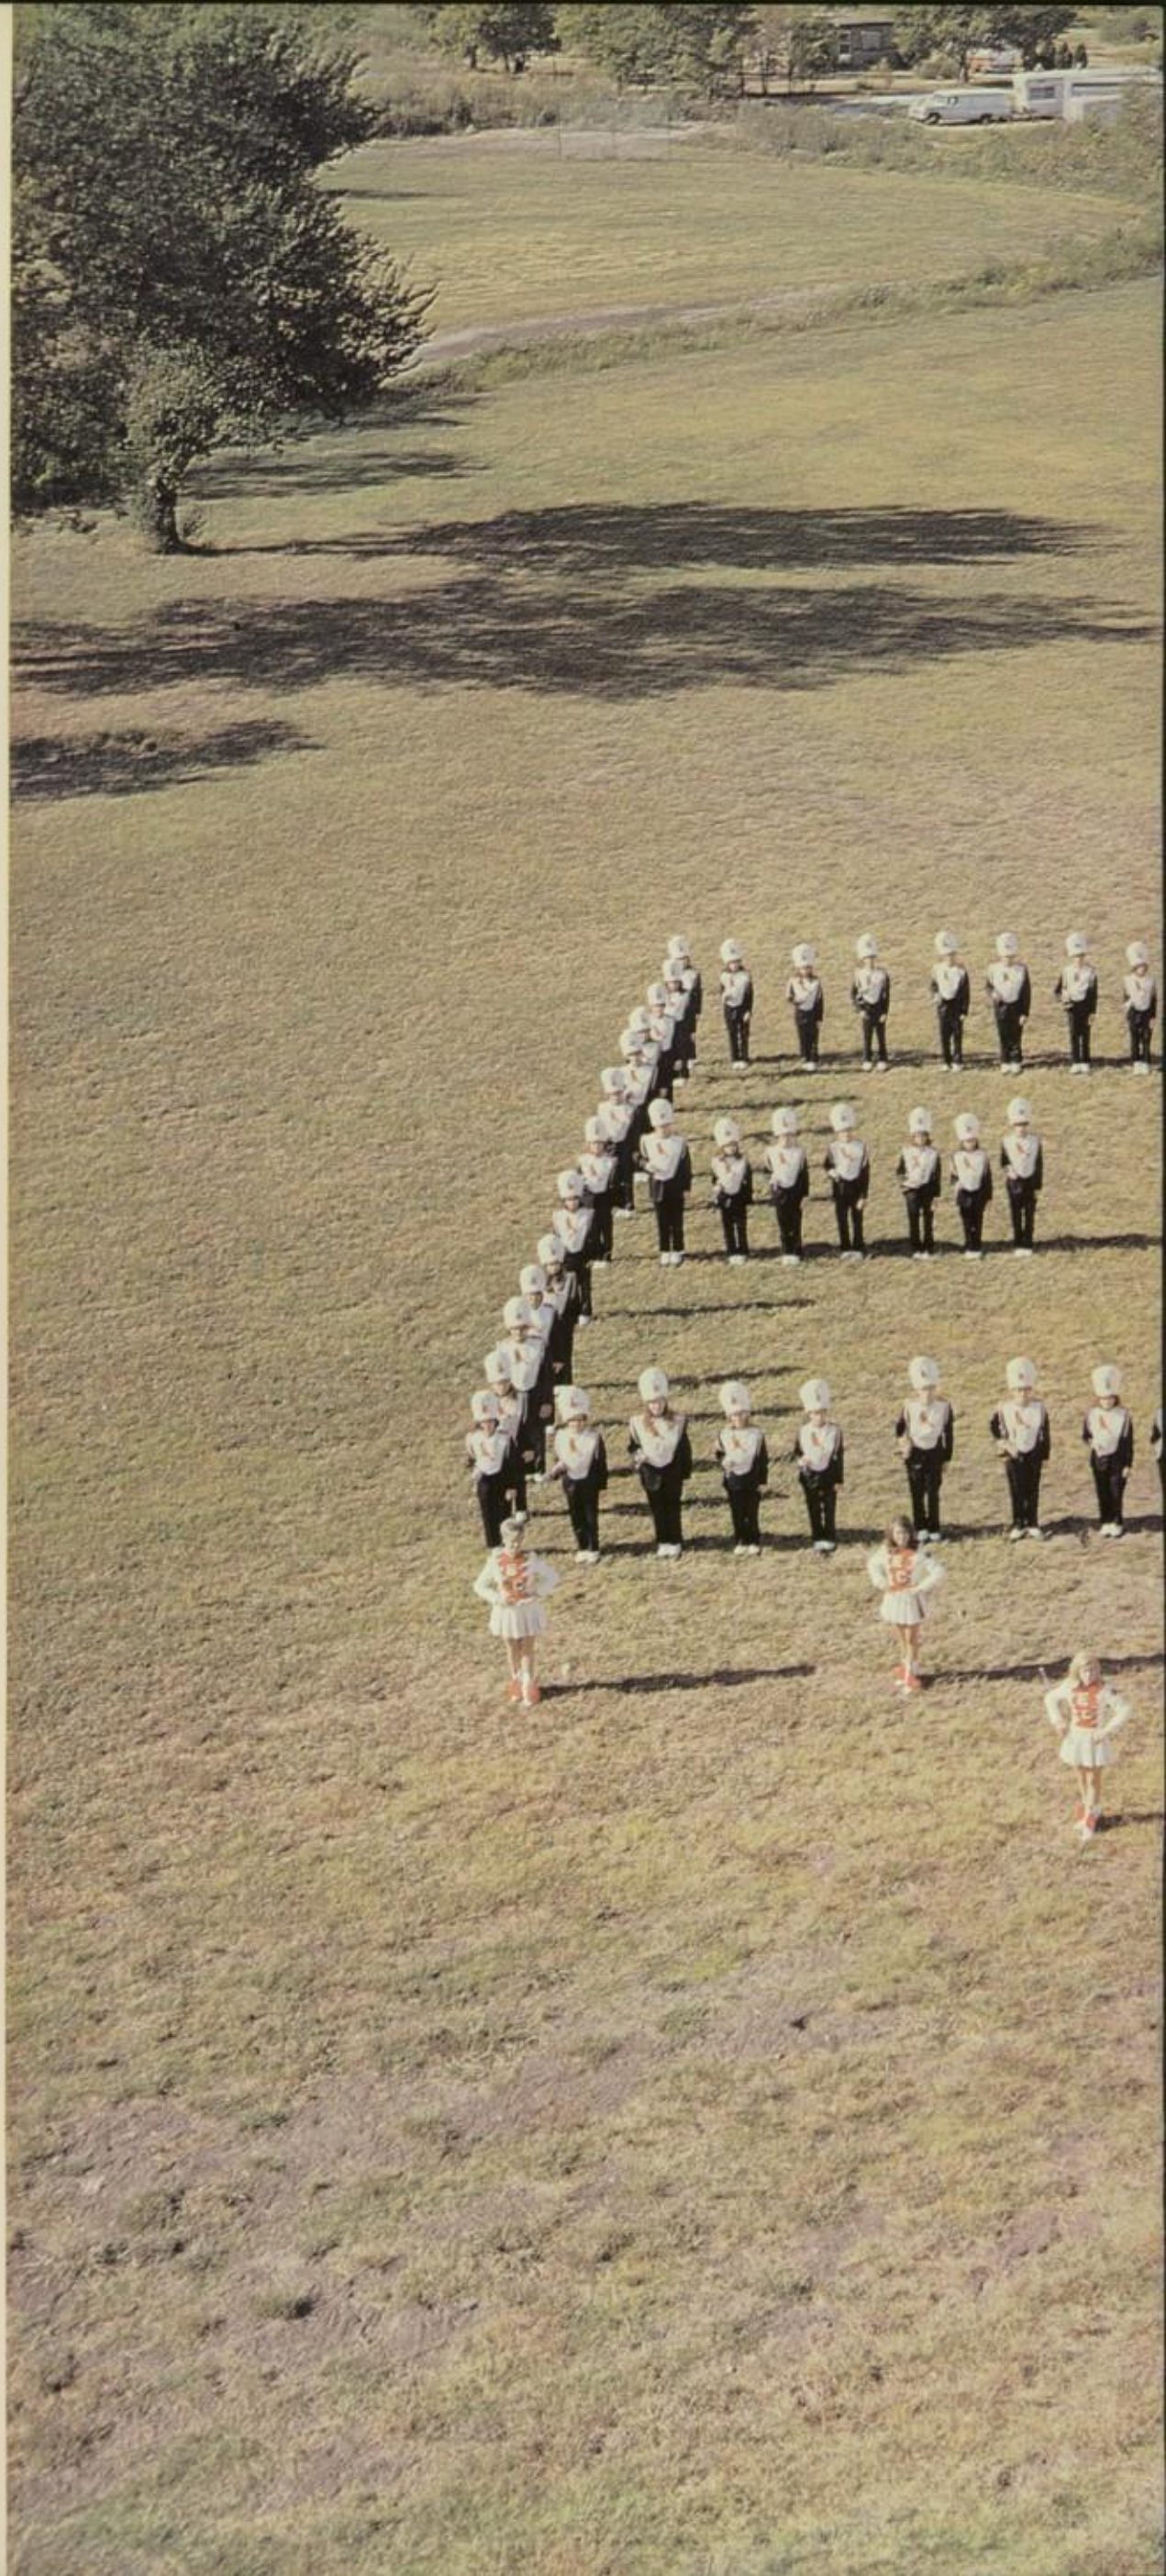

The welcome voice of a friend, warm and personal, became an outgoing tone through Cardinal associations, both at home or in the scenic land of Italy. Sponsored by Mrs. Opal Lloyd, eleven Cardinals participated in the American Institute of Foreign Study. The group studied Italian Art History and Language at Perugia University, briefly touring Italy and Africa. The homecoming group agreed there was a new ring in familiar voices at East Central, always there, but much more cherished by time and distance.

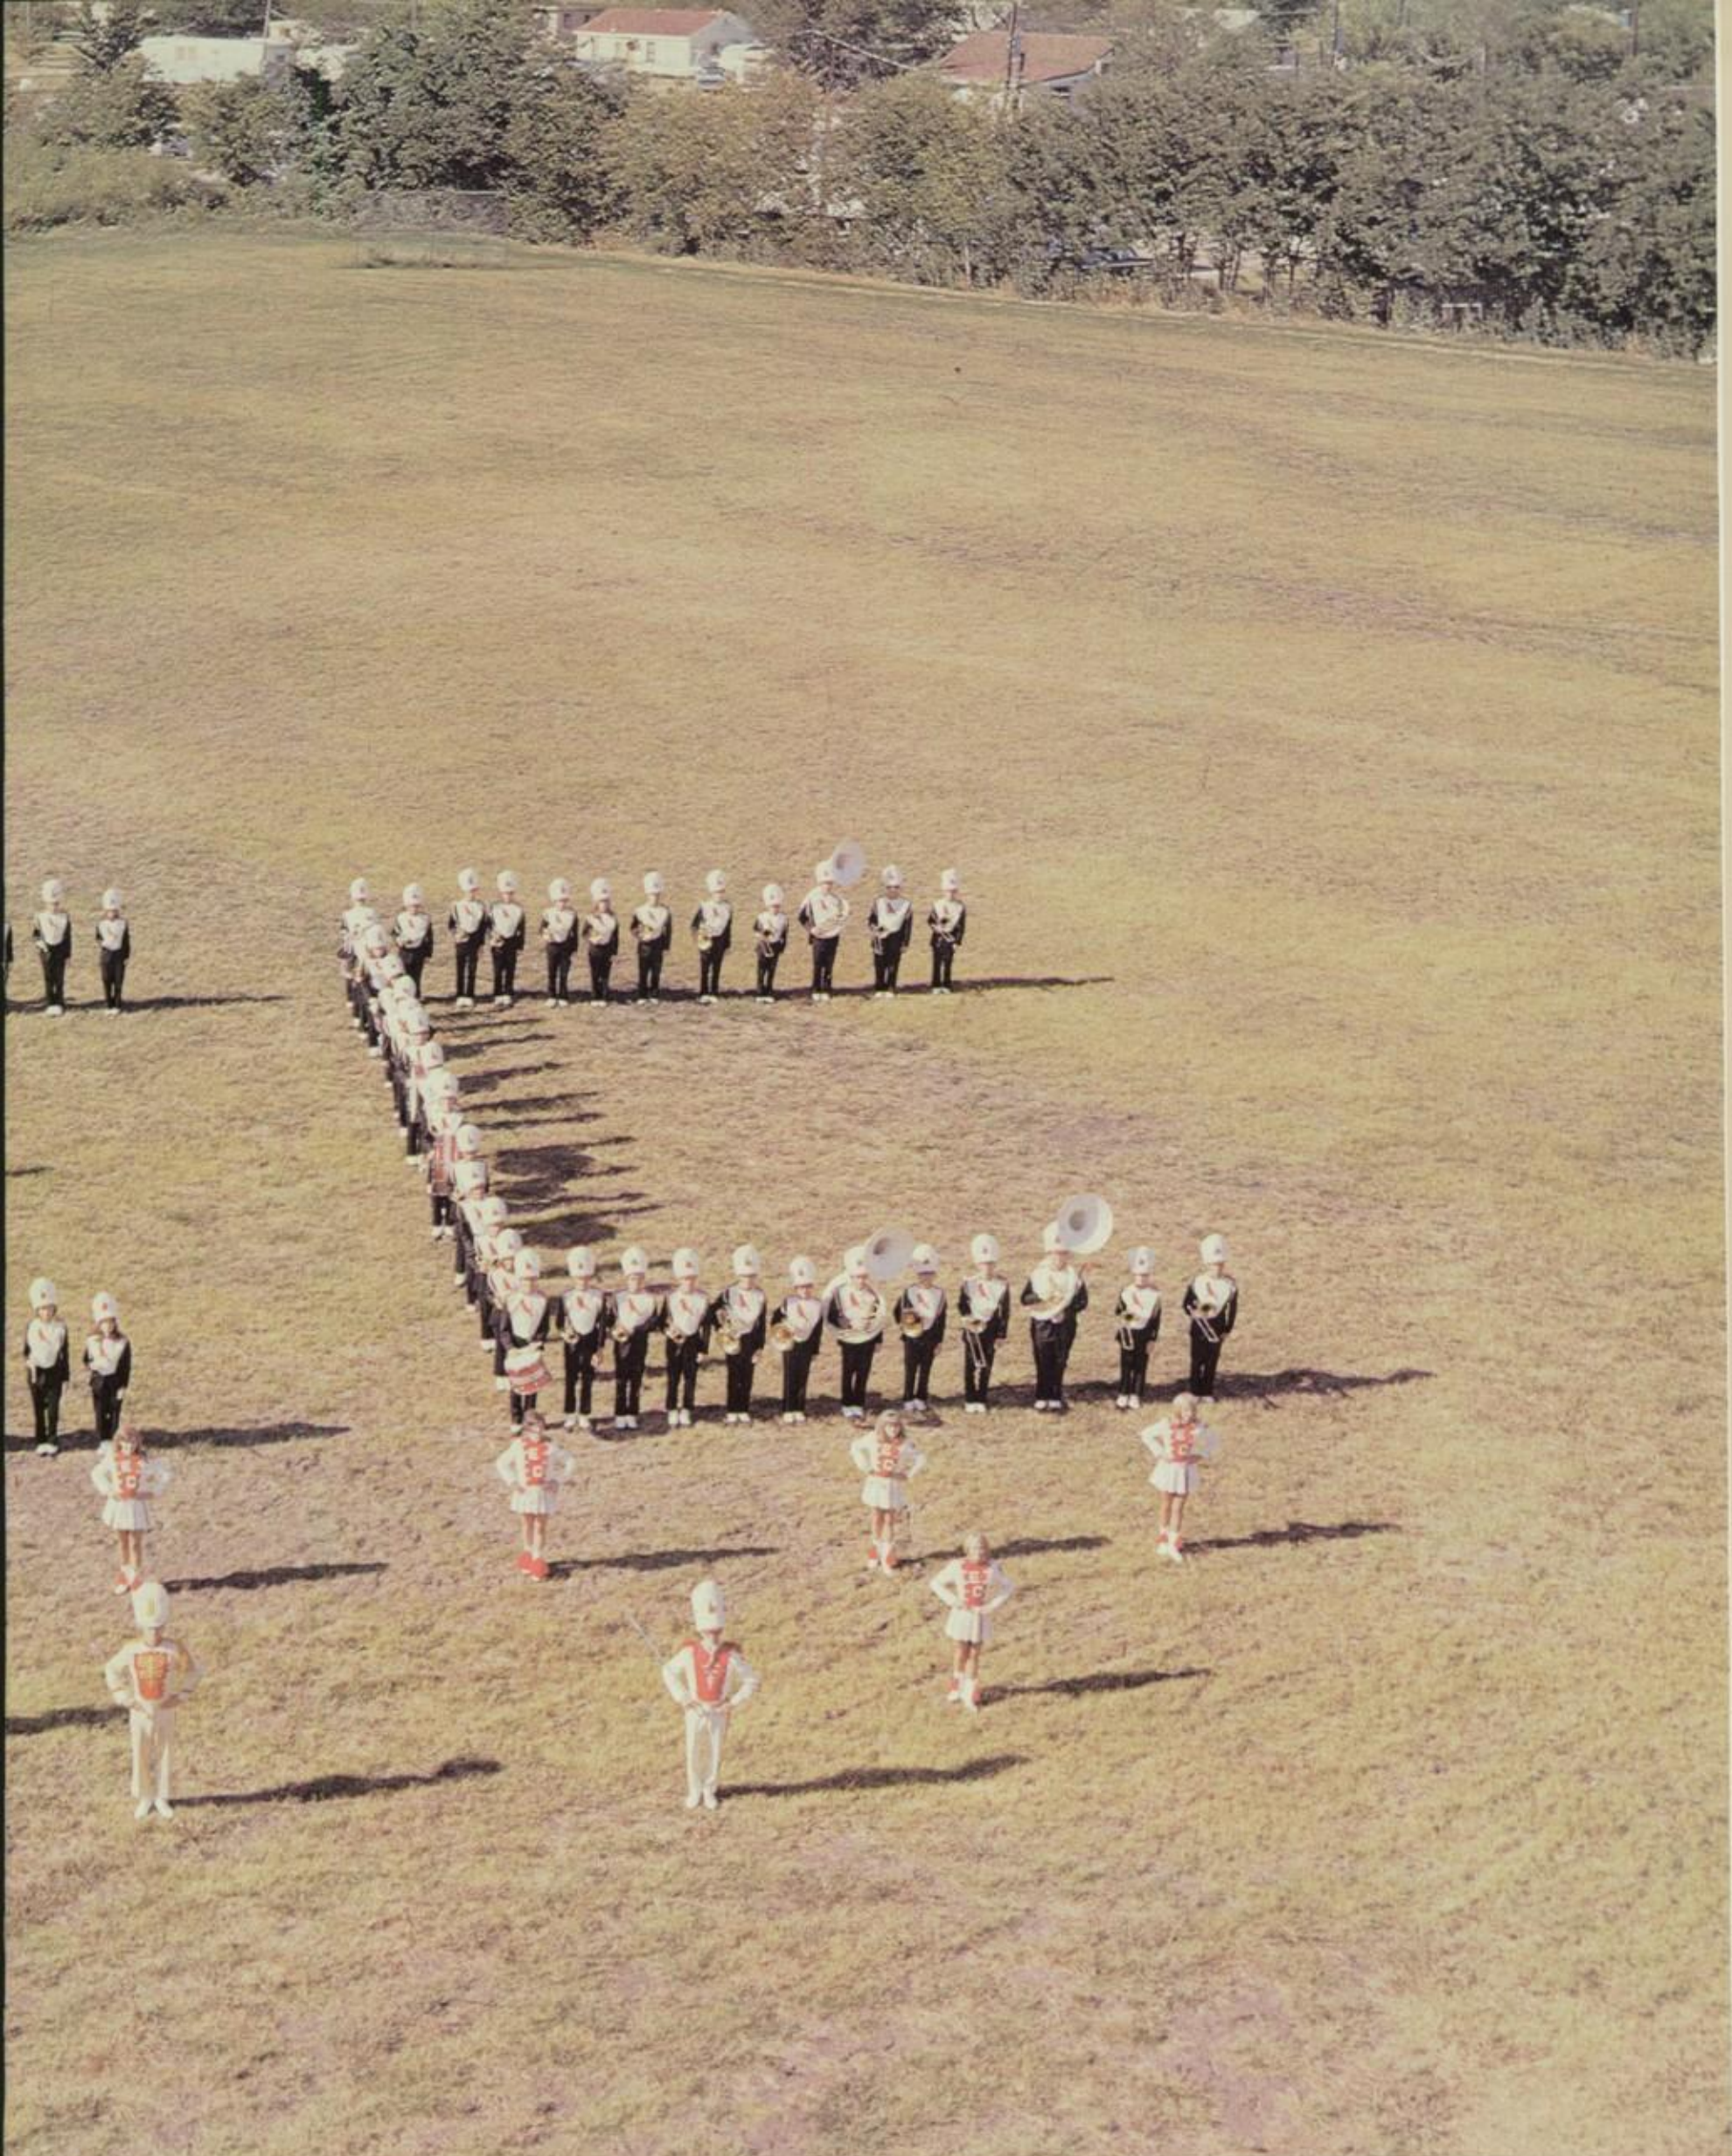

"One More Time": So peals the sound of spirit from the E.C. Marching Band.

One of the most spectacular sights and sounds at East Central is the impressive, 92-member Marching Band, organized and professionally directed by Mr. Dennis Kelliher. Wearing uniforms designed according to specification, Cardinal band members sport black tuxedos, complemented with a white overlay, a red Cardinal bird on one side, a white letter "EC" on the other. This regalia, topped with white tasseled shakos, has an exciting, majestic appearance as the performers march in formation from the sidelines of a football field or down Tulsa's Main Street in the annual State Fair parade. Familiar to Cardinal students are the early morning, "O" hour workouts which keep band member in perpetual motion and musical concord on frosty mornings. The band rehearses several formations, the most popular of which is "E.C.," pictured on these pages. Senior Drum Major Lee Swarthout, Junior Steve Mullins and eight spirited majorettes help to sparkle the appearance of the band. E. C. majorettes are Linda Newton, head twirler, Kathy Southern, assistant, Carla Sheffield, Dianna Flynn, Roberta Brooks, Pam Hayes, Ruthie Davison, and Dianna Holder. Starting his 4th year as director, Mr. Kelliher holds a Bachelor of Music Degree from Tulsa University, as well as a Masters Degree in Education.

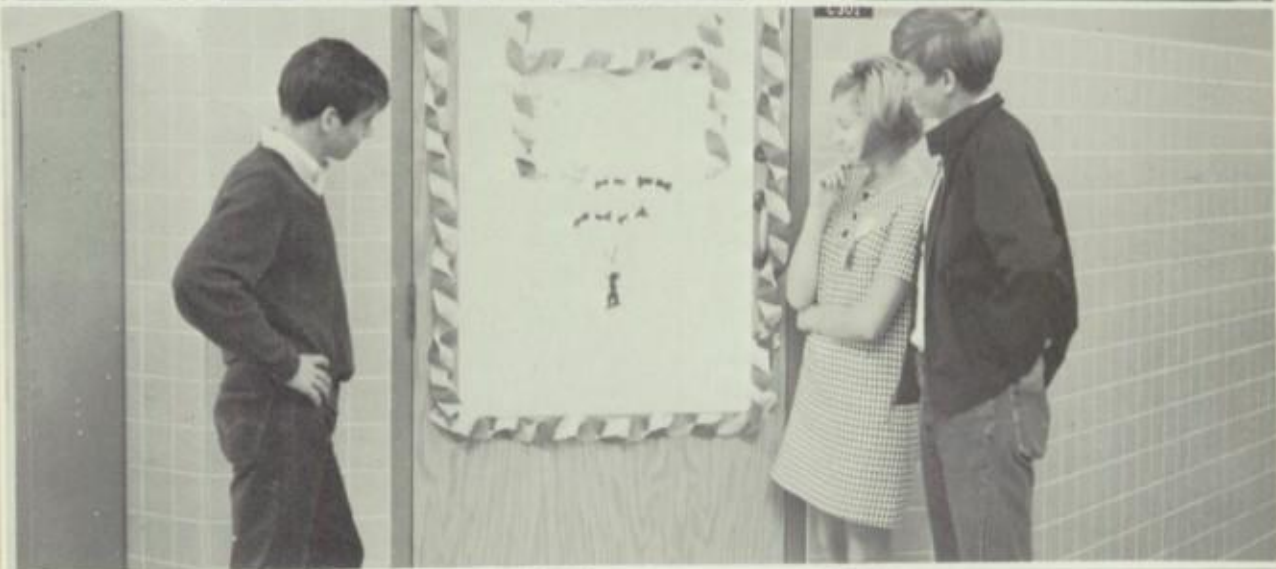

"Happy Days Are Here Again" is the keynote the East Central Marching Band strikes up for all Cardinal students for 1969.

Enthusiasm Echoed Through the Air

Cardinal enthusiasm has a way of welling to the surface through the years, undampened by defeats, fired with energy from one season to the next. 1969 ushered in a deluge of excitement through all activities—from decorating doors for homecoming, through the frosty season of wrestling and the Winter Ball to spring time and graduation ceremonies. The big "E" in Enthusiasm and "C" for "Contact" of personalities equalled that "E.C." feeling which echoed around the campus and corridors. The feeling of unity grew more as Cardinals elected Miss East Central III, Barbara Hughes. The whole being of the student body merged together to display their deep feeling for tradition. In addition were the elections of class officers which caused students to form their own opinions on such important matters. Other interest-catching events were class projects such as the Senior Play and the Senior ring sale. The Seniors presented "Blithe Spirit" by Noel Coward, while the Juniors anxiously awaited the arrival of their rings.

This was the set—under construction. . .
These were the people—under rehearsal. . .
This became one of the most beautiful coronations which was ever held at E.C.

Our View of the Leaders
Of Today

Tulsa Board of Education guides youth.

The East Central staff salutes Dr. Charles C. Mason, Superintendent of Schools, who has served the Tulsa Board of Education through 26 productive, progressive years in behalf of our city's youth. Curriculum demands, personnel openings and vacancies, financial transactions: all of these pressing responsibilities — and more, throughout the 106-school system — have been met conclusively by Dr. Mason and his staff. Cardinals appreciate both the time and effort freely extended by the distinguished ladies and gentlemen of the Board of Education.

Welcome to East Central!

The Voice of Leadership Mr. James W. Payne

A strong high school is commanded by an equally strong administrator, and for his guidance and foresight East Centralites are gratefully indebted to Principal James W. Payne. His is the voice of leadership — resonant with ideals, clear with direction, deep with decision. Mr. Payne has piloted Cardinal students and his teaching staff for 12 years, through crucial years of new construction, expanding curriculums, with newer and vital trends yet to come. His is the voice of experience, for he once was a classroom teacher. His is the voice of compassion, for his son and daughter were graduated from East Central. And for years of heart-felt concern, all Cardinals will echo, "Thank you, Mr. Payne."

Guidance Starts the First Day of School

Whether the situation require job placement, the card catalog, or a health chart, East Central offers resource personnel who are equipped and willing to serve the diversified requirements of Cardinal students. Mr. John Ausmus, Jim Quetone, Jim Bradford, and Mrs. Opal Lloyd round out the school's counseling staff. Librarian Mrs. Norma Barnes, who conducts an extensive sophomore orientation unit each September, also directs two Book Fairs annually. Mrs. Irene Bennett, school nurse, is sometimes a source of discomfort when flu shots are in order, but more often a source of comfort and care in time of accident or need.

Newcomers to East Central

Mrs. Pam Pollard, Department Chairman, and Miss Carolyn Hale are new, not only to East Central's art department, but also to Tulsa. Mrs. Pollard now teaches three basic art classes, painting and composition, and advanced art. She has taught both art and English in Texas, having received her B.A. degree from Wayland College in Plainview, Texas. She has studied art at Pan American College in Edinburg, Texas. More familiar as a Speech Arts instructor, Miss Hale teaches one basic art class. She moved here from New York City where she taught art, speech and drama. She received her B.A. degree from Abilene, Texas and has done graduate work at New York University and Long Island University in New York. She has exhibited some of her personal work in art exhibits in New York.

Art and Stagecraft

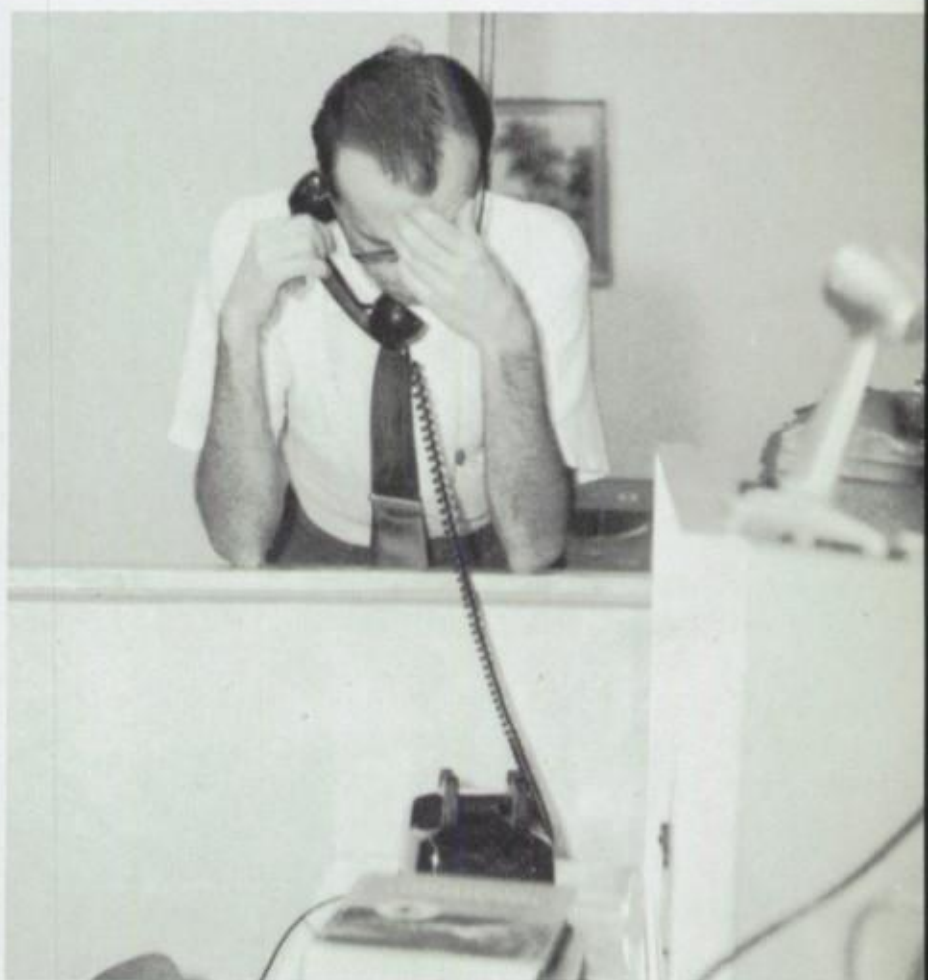

Create New Dimensions and Insight.

Art teachers Pam Pollard and Carolyn Hale discuss merits of a new charcoal sketch.

Also new to East Central is talented Mr. Norris Deskin, audio-visual and stagecraft director. Mr. Deskin is responsible for all scenery and the lighting for all plays, assemblies, the water show, and the spectacular Miss East Central III coronation, which was held in October. He coordinates the rental of the school auditorium by outside groups. In addition he is responsible for the distribution and maintenance of all audio-visual equipment in the school.

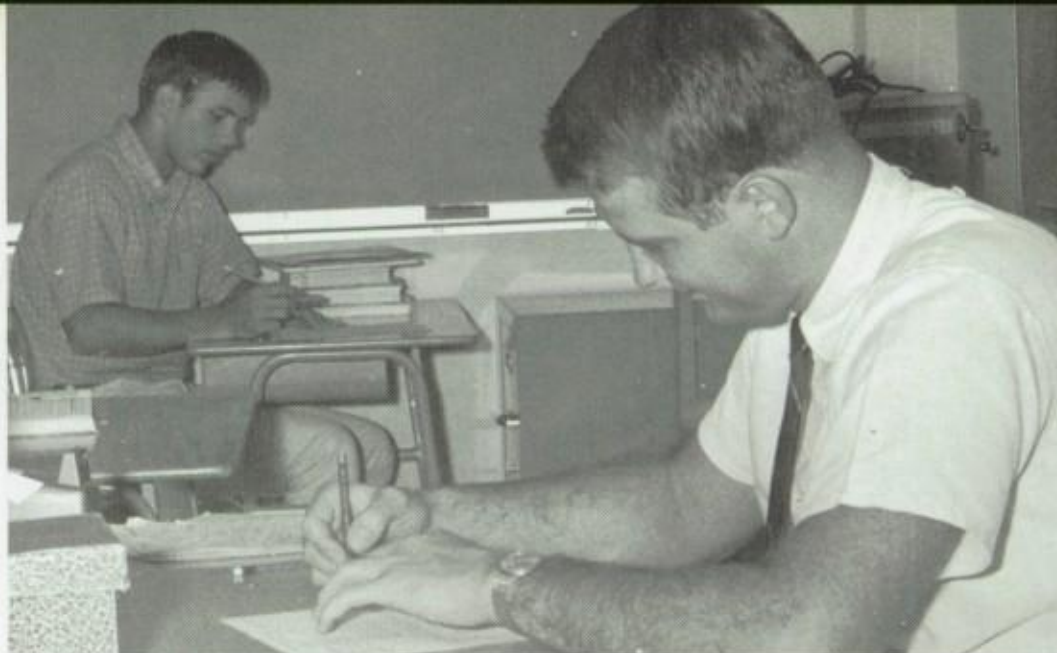

Mr. Deskin knows Stagecraft is hard work

"How to Succeed in Business" becomes more than a slogan at East Central, where five experienced Business Education teachers supply knowledge and training to business-bound students. The department also provides college bound students a secure foundation for obtaining a degree in the field of business. The most immediate advantages students realize are the ways and means to a part time job, or to practical skills in completing other academic courses. New to the department this year is Miss Luberta Waters, who teaches General Office Education, Typing I and Shorthand I.

Though the Language Arts department is wide by subject area, — English, Journalism, and Speech — it is specific in purpose: to teach students the art of oral and written communication. Four new teachers, Margaret Caldwell, Doshie Loyd, Sandra Stuart, and Carolyn Hale, joined the staff to broaden student experiences in social skills of reading, writing, listening, speaking, creating.

Foreign Language Conveys International Understanding

Historic Germany comes to the foreground as the newest course offering at East Central's rapidly expanding Foreign Language department. Taught by Mrs. Anne Hicks, the Bavarian dialect now takes its place with the study of Spanish and French linguistics which are enriching the lives and global understanding of Cardinal students. Foreign language staff members include Mrs. Florence Schupbach, Spanish instructor, Mrs. Anne Hicks, German-French, Mrs. Louise Jones, Spanish and French, and Miss Sandy Stuart, Spanish. The teachers use a wide array of equipment to convey bi-lingual mastery and cultural understandings: foreign books, magazines, and newspapers, tapes, records, and language laboratory facilities.

Home Economics

Creates our home-living competence.

Home Economic teachers Mrs. Brenda Woodall, Mrs. JoAnn Burnley, and Mrs. Lucy Spear insure a double future for Cardinal coeds, who find that while they are preparing to earn their own living, they are also acquiring the "know-how" for successful homemaking. Therefore, it comes as no surprise that several practical boys are also enrolled in various foods courses. The basic goal of the department is to contribute to happy home life and better family living. The staff offers a latitude of foods, clothing and home living, home management courses of study.

Industrial Arts Offers job exploration.

The hum in the West Wing represents East Central at its busiest and most practical for Cardinal boys. For at this location, job possibilities are explored through the media of power mechanics, drafting, wood and metal work, and aviation. In addition, Distributive Education students not only learn theory, but at the same time receive on-the-job training.

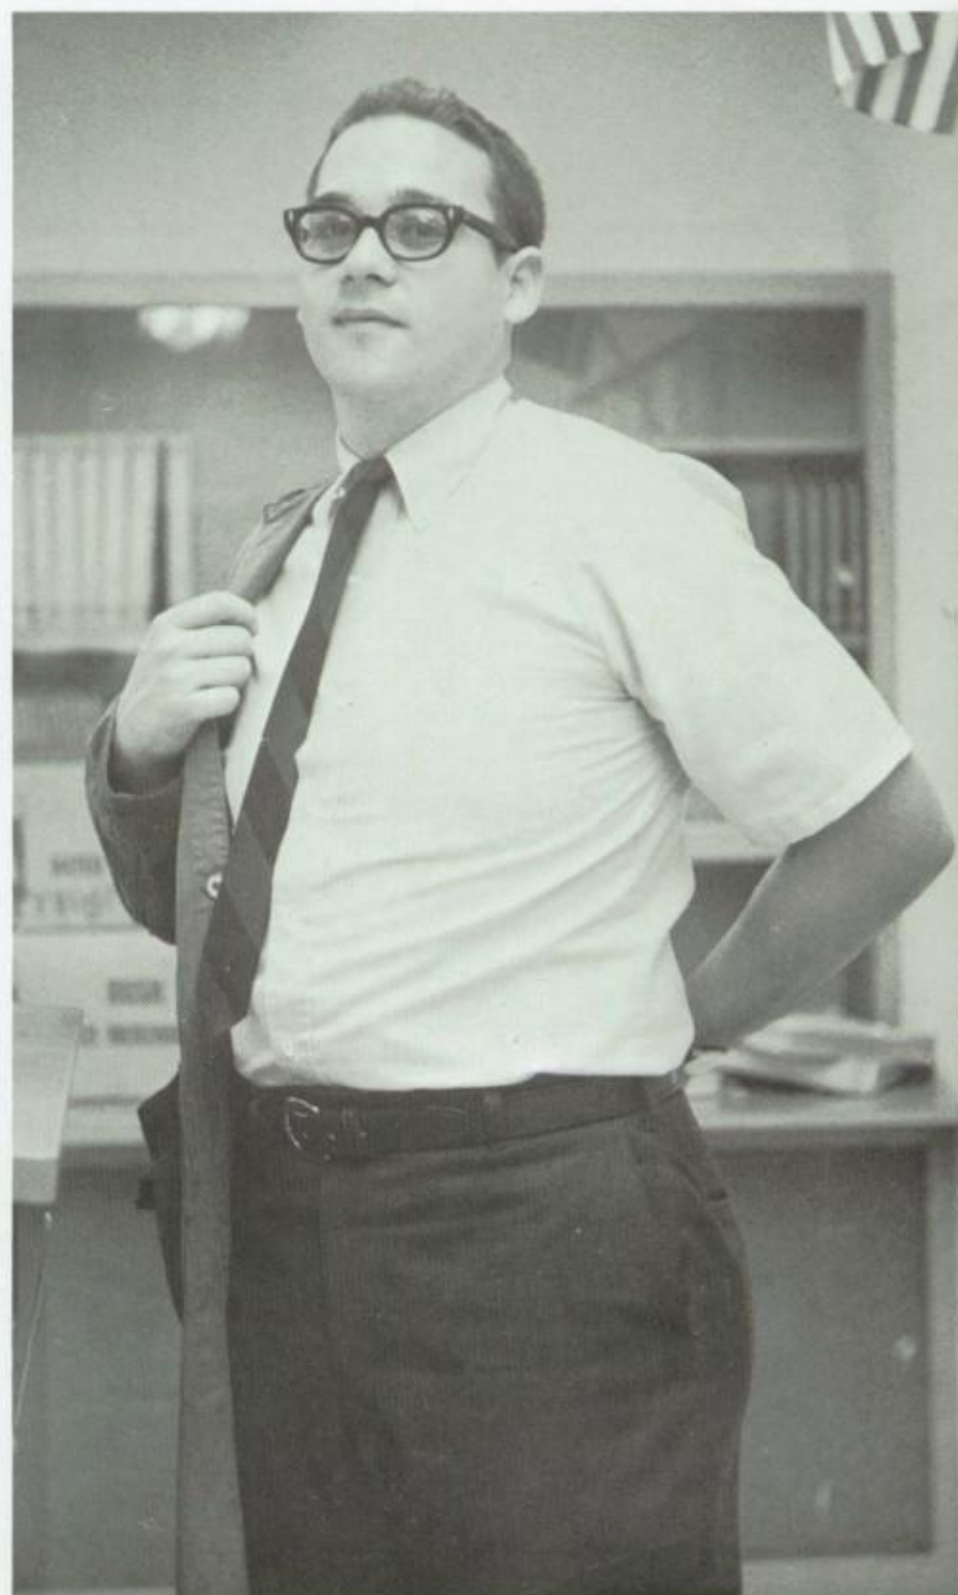

Drivers' Education

Good reaction time, depth, color and visual perception: these are the controlling factors which govern a safe driver. With this view, Weldon Childress organized a Drivers Education department which trains good citizens as well as stable, defensive drivers for courtesy on the highways.

Specialists in Skill and Safety

Industrial Arts and Drivers Education staff members include Mr. Don Randolph, department head, Mrs. Margaret Byrd, Mr. Weldon Childress, Richard Geiger, and Duane Selvey, all of whom are experts in practical employment and methods of safety regulations.

Mathematics Department

Prepares for uncertainties of tomorrow.

With an acute shortage of expert mathematicians in our technological society, East Central mathematics instructors face a tremendous responsibility in preparing young people to assume the roles for which they are so urgently needed. A presentation of modern mathematics is valuable in molding all well-educated citizens, while it is essential for the pre-college student to prepare for higher work. Mathematics is a foundation, the building block to precise, logical thinking, necessary to the modern age. Ed McCray, department chairman, has twenty-two years teaching experience, with a Masters Degree in Mathematics.

Mrs. Erbert demonstrates her choral direction abilities.

The "sound of music" at East Central owes its popularity and vitality to staff members Mr. Dennis Kelliher and Mrs. Virginia Erbert, who train over 372 talented musicians daily, approximately one-third of the total school population. And although the variety of band, orchestra, choral and ensemble classes are considered electives, the music instructors find that their courses are very much in demand, as are the many public performances which result from hours of rehearsal. They direct students in parade performances, district and state musical contests, the All-City Arts Festival Concert, and Tulsa Youth Symphony activities.

Science Department

Discovers the Fascination of Life.

In the modern world, where "change" is foremost in each young mind, E.C. students must be mentally equipped to deal with the trends they are confronting and creating. Science reveals the fascination of life, adding to its complexity by deeper exploration. East Central has six knowledgeable science teachers, each an expert in his own field, to direct student learning and discovery. New teachers this year are Rodney Goodsell, H. J. Green, and Myrtle Rollerson. Pat Ward is science department chairman.

Classroom Quests

Election year '68 was a high point of interest for Social Studies teachers as they continued to stress a good, well-informed citizenship in turbulent times. In addition to history and government classes, the staff introduced two new sociology courses, the aim of which is to seek solutions to social problems that plague contemporary society: civil strife and urban renewal. Under the guidance of Mr. O. D. Bell, department chairman, staff members directed studies which covered open housing, minority problems, primaries, general elections, political conventions, the electoral college, and voting age surveys.

Perking with energy and efficiency, East Central's clerical staff assumes a wide scope of duties: finances, student accounting, school correspondence, transcripts, all designed for maximum service to Cardinals.

Cafeteria, Custodial Staffs Serve lunch lines and building needs.

Mrs. Mildred McNeill, East Central's cafeteria manager, and 16 co-workers serve lunch to over 1,200 students daily from a fully electric kitchen, the only one in the Tulsa system. Some of the staff members, many of whom are mothers and homemakers, report as early as seven in the morning to start the kitchen activities.

Head Custodian Bob Sneed, with a custodial staff of 14 members, maintain East Central's total electric plant facilities on a 24-hour basis. Air-conditioning, heating, surface condition of the floors and walls: all must stay in working order to meet comfort and safety regulations for student body and faculty members.

P.T.A., Quarterback Club Function with East Central at heart.

Two adult organizations which work tirelessly for East Central are the P.T.A. and Quarterback Club. "Back to School Night," held in September, ushered in the school year and renewed the friendship between parents and teachers. President Bob Smith heads the Cardinal Quarterback Club, which has risen in membership this year to 50. The club meets once a month at East Central.

ACTION

The Sound of People and their progress.

Action begins in the classroom!

Cathy Vick creates "Five Stages of Woman," an oil painting.

Art Classes

Classic and modern art render pleasure.

When deep inner feelings can develop into a solid form of beauty or truth, the end result is art. Basic art students get acquainted with starting techniques by learning various kinds of crafts and ideas. Second year painting and composition students not only learn different painting techniques and materials, but stress good composition as well. Advanced art students enjoy a great deal of talent and prestige as they work much time on their own, take field trips, and enter finished work in competitive art shows in various cities. Originality is stressed; each student is creative with each problem he meets. All media and techniques are studied.

George Hess and Tony Rapson display one of their favorite projects, a primitive art mask.

Business Classes

hold skills that lead to job security.

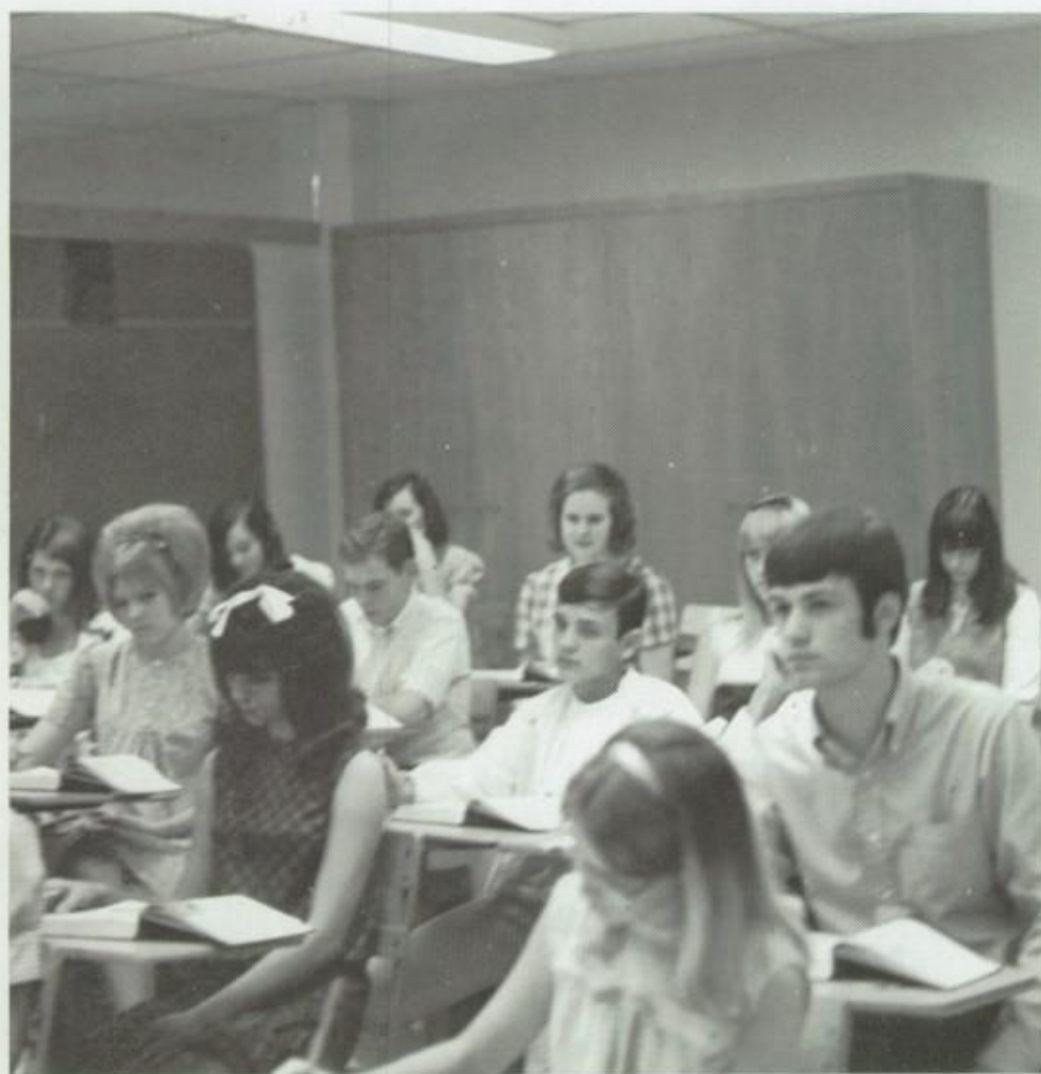

Business classes interest students for their two-point advantages: training for the business world, and a foundation for the college-bound. Business Math and Basic Business, in addition, prepare students for every day living. Bookkeeping prepares an individual for many office and business occupations, while High School Law offers rules of social conduct. Office Machine classes are designed to develop an understanding and appreciation of the place of machines in the business world, as well as being a marketable skill. Advanced Shorthand, Transcription, and General Office Education give students the skill and tools to make a smooth maneuver from high school to office.

Bookkeeping, typing are popular.

Sheila Fiveash puts business knowledge to use as she makes her School Service rounds.

Language Arts Classes help students cross a communication gap.

Critical listening is an aspect of study in English classes.

David Flanagan reads the Stage Manager's role from Our Town.

Language Arts is a broad area in the school curriculum, covering English, Journalism, and Speech. All fields have, however, one goal in common: communication, and helping each student to express himself, orally and written, with his fellowman, within his own occupation and social life. English subject material is presented on five phase-levels of achievement, with experiences in reading, writing, listening, speaking, thinking, and creating. Courses in both remedial and developmental reading also are offered, as well as an intensive study of great literary classics. Journalism and Speech offer firsthand writing and dramatic outlets.

Gary Smith learns to organize his thoughts, one phase of effective social communication.

Foreign Language Classes find a way to International fellowship.

To learn about people of foreign nations is the driving ambition of Foreign Language students, as they sing Spanish, French, and German songs, listen to records, listen to stories, and view films—all designed for insight into our International neighbors. Human understanding is the known way to a broader peace and fellowship. Students in language labs listen to tapes prepared by native speakers and then repeat the voices for correct pronunciation and correct patterns of native speech. French students tried their hands at teaching during the Christmas season when they taught Christmas carols and French Phrases at Perry Elementary.

Intrigued by foreign countries, Jim Morehead practices his command of advanced French. In pictures to the right, Lynn Green glances up from her book to greet the photographer, while Spanish students read on.

History Classes unlock time barriers to seek knowledge.

Danny Fore finds the world globe vital to his studies.

Historical research on an individual basis accelerated this year as Social Studies students engaged in fulltime, more extensive laboratory activities. Students utilized over 400 reference books for American and World history, as well as current magazines, full sets of maps and charts to which each student had easy access, tapes, records, films, and film strips. Four new courses in Sociology were added to help students understand racial tensions and economic crises which plague our contemporary U.S. society. From a thorough study of the past, students agree that the world we live in could have taken many directions. The future will determine the best.

Students participate in both individual and group research to discover trends in history. Mickey Sexton and Jeff Lunsford trace the Panama Canal area.

How to save time and money, yet run a happy household is the goal of Home Economics students, as they employ arts of cooking, sewing, budgeting and interior decorating to the best advantages. "Getting your money's worth" is a challenge in today's inflated economic system. Students learn to buy and prepare up-to-date convenience foods, getting highest quality for more reasonable prices. Sewing classes grow in popularity as young seamstresses learn the latest techniques for "mod" styles and new fabrics. House and Home Management students draw house plans for a particular family, furnish the home, and learn to finance it by loans and the theory of principal and interest. This is the code for family living.

Karen Burden bastes skillfully.

Industrial Arts Classes give on-the-job training for industry.

Industrial Arts activities:

Alex Rivers, Randy McDonald, John Carmichael, Mike Crawford examine an internal combustion motor, while Joel Jakubowski demonstrates a wood lathe to machine shop classmates. DECA students Jacque Moore, Paula Patterson, and Debbie Eaton work on vocational notebooks.

Industrial Arts students continue to explore further vocational fields in East Central's fully-equipped industrial wing. A new course, aviation, appeals to many boys since it serves as a basic ground school to obtain the written part of a private pilot's license. Students study weather, principles of flight, aircraft performance, and Federal Aviation regulations. Machine Shop students make hammers, punches, tap wrenches, other power metals used in industry. Advanced students construct their own wood lathes. Woodshop boys make bookcases, desks, and cedar chests. Power Mechanics boys study the basics of power products: automotive, diesel, marine, and small engines. Drafting students learn to draw and interpret basic drawings and blueprints that are used by industry. DECA students receive on-the-job training.

Mathematics Classes prepare in theory for space-age living.

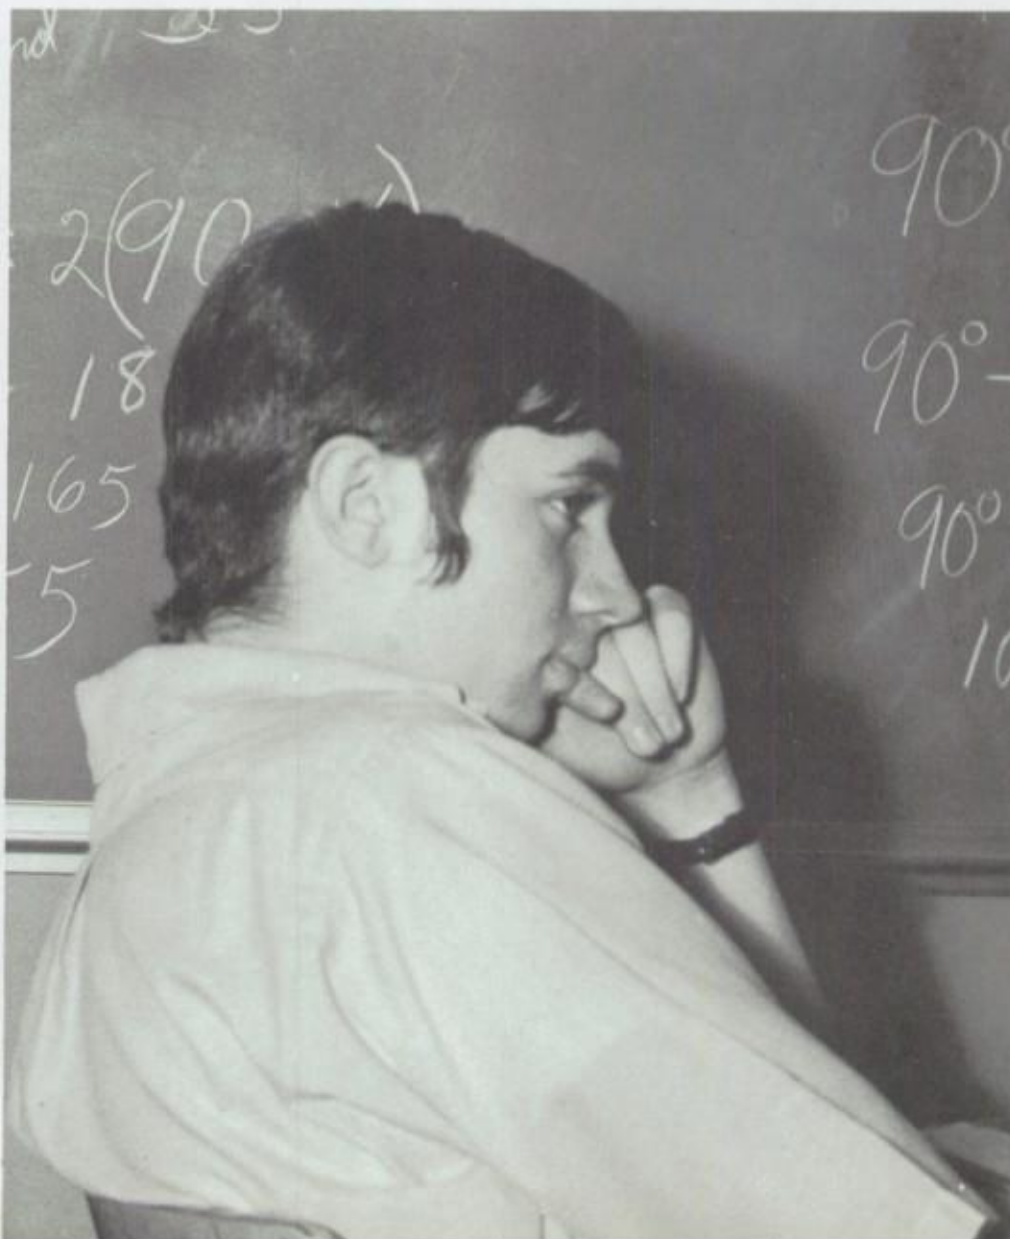

New to the Mathematics department this year was the addition of two courses, Advanced Algebra, designed for college-bound students, and Math Analysis, which stresses Analytical geometry. Also, students found math easier to master this year as they were phased into P³ and P⁴ levels of achievement, a trend which has been accomplished in other academic areas of East Central. Students used a variety of learning methods to cope with the abstractions of math: textbooks, intense listening, and computing opaque projector problems.

Skill in abstract reasoning comes through the resources of mathematics classes.

Mathematics students learn faster through use of opaque projector demonstrations.

David Brown mulls the relevance of math problems to daily life.

Music Classes

provide students with a creative outlet.

Musicians on stage performing with skill and technical beauty is not the whole story. Behind the scenes in the Music department finds students hard at work, rehearsing individually and in groups to render flawless productions. Choral students practice vocal warmup and sight reading daily, concentrating on visual solfege, the art of distinguishing intervals by sight, always stressing syllables, diction, and breath control. Instrumental students reach for high technical and artistic levels, utilizing standard and new band literature. Their skills are challenged by competition for chairs in each section. All strive for state music contests.

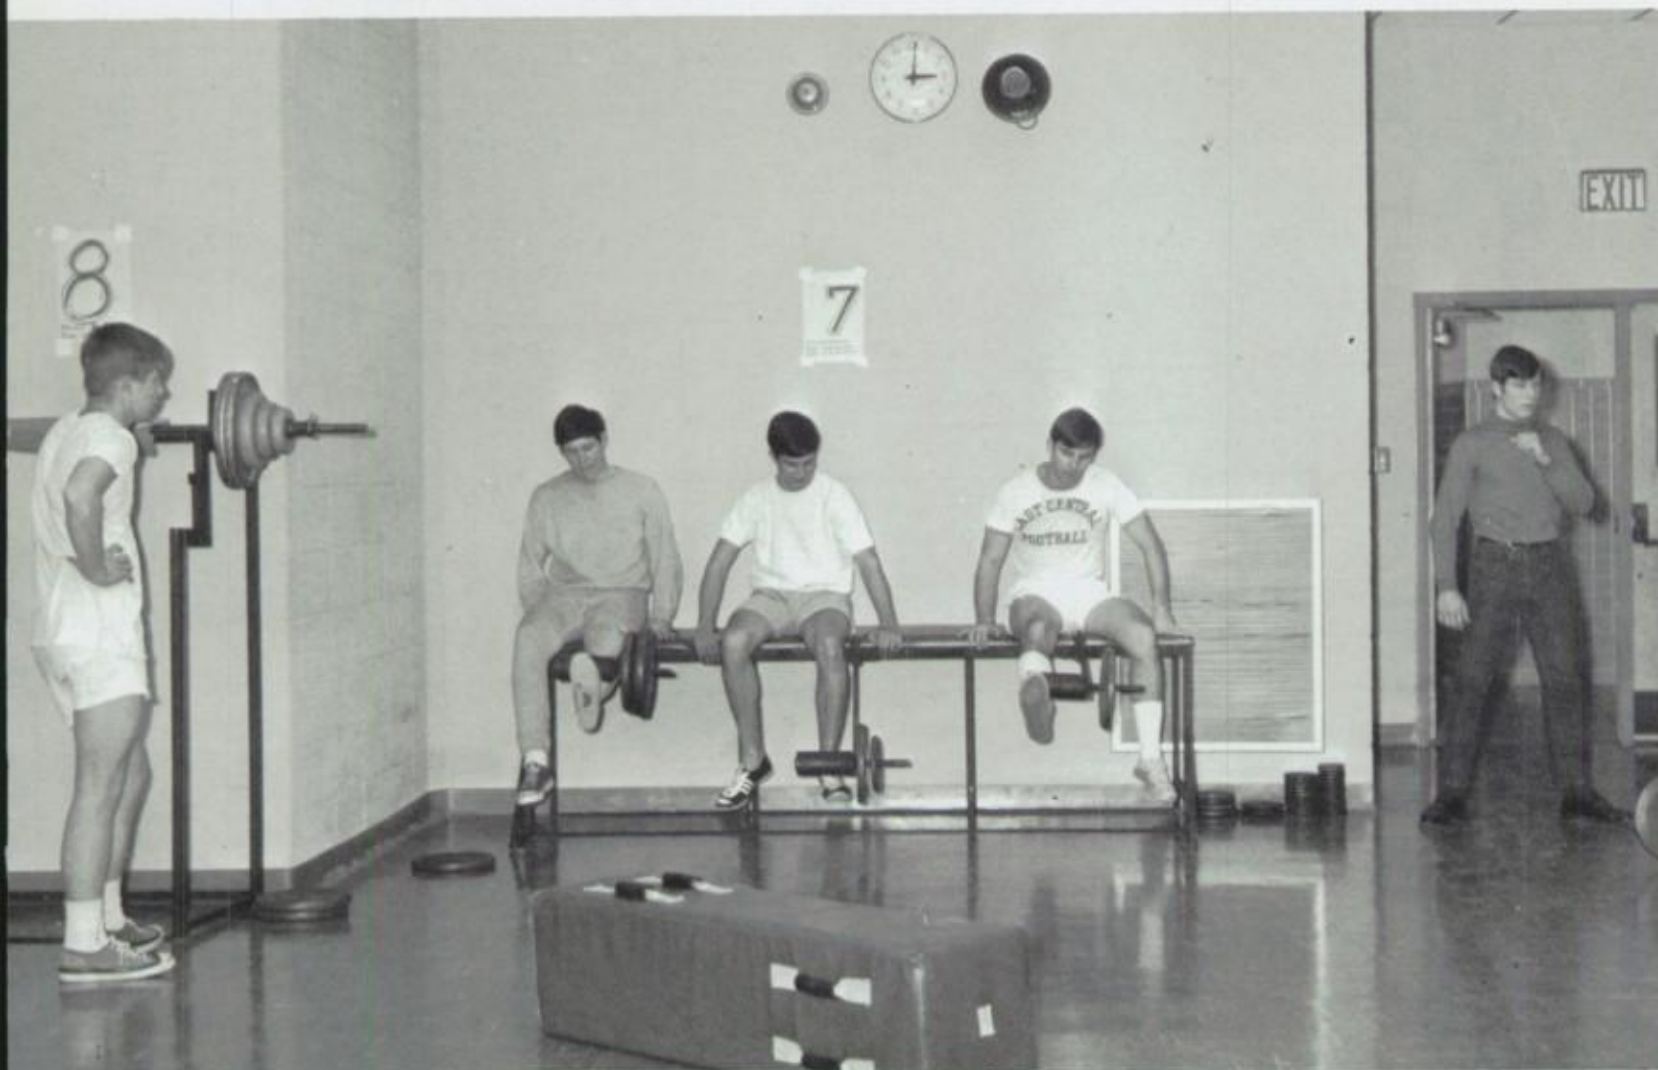

Choral classes practice sight reading, while instrumental students Paula Patterson, Leslie Barrett, Bob Roth and Tim Burns stress intonation.

Merle Newton offers a rendition on his popular clarinet.

Physical Education Classes foster the natural vitality of youth.

Students enjoy gymnastics.

Students let down academic pressures in Physical Education classes, relax their tensions, and concentrate on physical fitness and coordination, knowing that sound minds and bodies must work together. Sports and exercises follow a seasonal trend from football and volleyball in the fall to softball in the spring. Both boys' and girls' classes participate in swimming, the best physiological and psychological recreation, and gymnastics — bars and trampolines — to build strength and agility.

Jody prefers parallel bars.

Vickie walks the balance beam.

Girls like basketball, too.

Science Classes answer an age-old call for discovery.

Science students are endowed with a natural curiosity as they probe the secrets of life through the classroom resources of microscopes, films, and weekly lab studies that are correlated with reading and lectures. During the first semester, students master fundamentals, researching by groups, while second semester brings more intense individual research.

Mr. Max Matheson explains the structure of the human body to Christine Thompson.

Dalene studies cell structure.

Students learn terminology.

A familiar sight on the fifth floor is a class of science students busily taking notes.

E.C.'s Honor Society is growing this year with a record high of eighty-five members, of which twenty-six are second year members. Led by sponsor Mrs. Stevens, the Society has the annual senior boys versus faculty basketball game and sends delegates to state conventions. Besides possessing qualities of leadership and service, members must maintain a high grade average.

Student Council updates activities

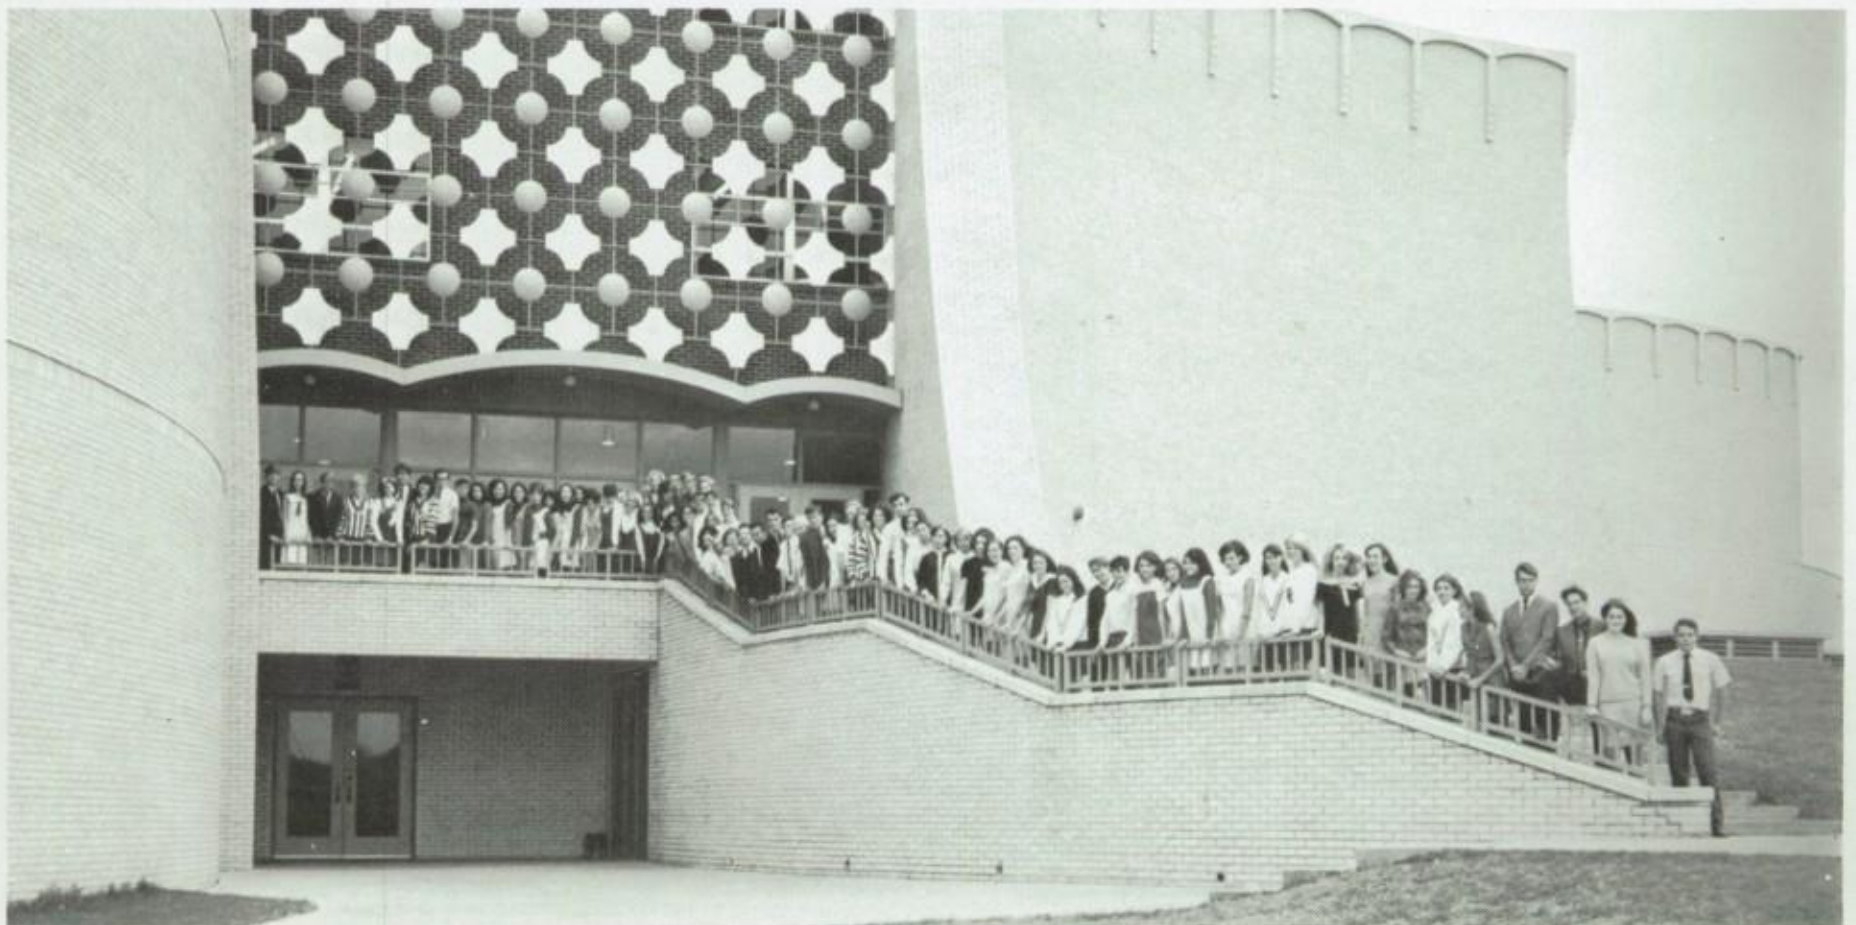

Mrs. Brenda Woodall guided the Student Council for four years.

Student Council officers helped to promote the AFS candy sales.

Setting leadership and fellowship as their goal, the EC Student Council sponsored an AFS candy sale to pave the way for another foreign exchange student to attend East Central High. Another one of the Student Council's projects was the annual Christmas dance. Members of the Council decorated the halls with snowflakes and Christmas ornaments. "The Circle's End" from Northeastern provided the music. Officers are Lloyd Johnson, Bill Huffman, Liz Geis, Max Wells, Susan Hartsell, and Diane Foster and Phyllis Robinson, all-city president.

Hervé Pitard blends well with Cards.

One of East Central's most popular A.F.S. students, Herve Pitard, almost missed his chance to come to America because he heard about the program only one day before the application deadline. Fortunately for Cardinals, he was accepted just in time, left for Tulsa in August, 1968, where he resided with his American brother, Roger Reid, and family this school year. Herve's birthplace is Rennes, France, where he lives with his parents, three sisters and one brother. One sister is his twin. Herve began feeling like a true Cardinal the day he entered school and has hosted for East Central during two assemblies where A.F.S. students from other lands and Tulsa schools have spoken about their respective countries.

Brothers, Roger and Hervé, pledge their friendship.

Hervé knows that schoolwork takes time and diligence.

It is the responsibility of the AFS Chapter to work with the school and with the Tulsa area AFS officers to promote the purpose of the American Field Service program to bring about greater understanding among peoples of different nations. The theme of AFS is "Walk together, talk together, O ye peoples of the earth; then, and only then, shall we have peace."

In the fall of the year the American Abroad coordinator and committee works toward selection of two East Central candidates for possible placement on a summer or study program in a foreign country. In the spring, the American Host Family Committee is selecting several possible host families for next year's exchange student.

Money-making projects this year are candy and popcorn sales. Other events include a spring outing to the lake. The club is led by an able body of officers. They are president, Roger Lanier; vice-president, Roger Reid; secretary, Gary Gouskus; treasurer, Wilson Rubottom; chaplain, Alan Peterson; sergeant at arms, Larry Thomas.

The E.C. Choral Department consists of a program full of variety. It ranges from taking the group to music festivals, recording records, holding the annual Christmas Messiah in the school auditorium, giving assemblies at junior high schools, holding the E.C. talent show, competing in district contests, and singing for the outgoing seniors at Vesper services.

Cardinal bands command recognition.

The orchestra prepares to tune its instruments for a concert.

East Central high school bands, under the direction of Mr. Dennis Kelliher, brought a welcome sight to eyes and many joyous sounds to the ears of Cardinal students this year. Not only did the Marching Band add spirit and pep to sports events, but they also spread much good will throughout the city of Tulsa. This good will came through the participation of the band in parades and many half-time events this year, including participation in the State Fair and annual Christmas parade. Highlight of the year is the annual Band Queen concert.

East Central's Marching Band lines up in its formation.

1969 Majorettes include Diana Flynn, Carla Sheffield, Roberta Brooks, Linda Newton, Pam Hayes, Ruthie Davison, Kathy Southern and Dianna Holder.

Majorettes sport new look, new action!

Beginning last May and continuing through the summer, the East Central majorettes set their goal as perfection. They gave proof of their many hours of practice through routines at pep assemblies. Highlights of the year were marching in the Christmas parade and giving performances during the half-times of football games. To give variety to their routines, the majorettes use fire batons, hoops, fire ropes and, the regulation baton. The majorettes are: Linda Newton, Kathy Southern, Diana Flynn, Roberta Brooks, Pamela Hayes, Ruth Davison, Dianna Holder, and Carla Sheffield.

Displaying their tools are head majorette Linda Newton and assistant Kathy Southern.

Sponsor is Mrs. Pat Holder.

Eight peppy Cardinal Cheerleaders boosted East Central's teams to victory. The energetic team captured the coveted spirit stick for the third straight year at Thunderhawk Cheerleading Clinic this previous summer. In addition to their cheering responsibilities, the Cheerleaders sponsor the traditional spirit letter, conduct the B-Squad cheerleading clinic, and aid in the Quarterback Club membership drive. Captain of the squad is Donna Erwin and co-captain is Liz Geis, both seniors. Other members of the squad are Susan Hartsell, Liz Riggs, Vicki Hutchens, Diane Foster, Dee Ann Hendricks, and Pam Alexander.

Pep Club holds record high membership

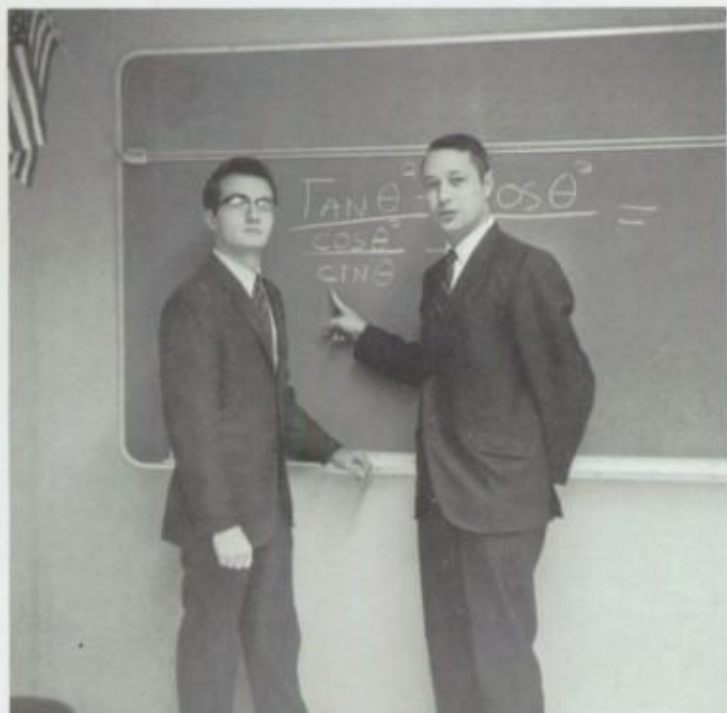

Bright, new uniforms for Seniors and Sophomores helped to get E.C.'s Pep Club off to a good start. Under the leadership of their president Barbara Hughes and Sponsor Pat Holder, the Pep Club reached a new high of 250 members. Their many activities included the distributing of spirit ribbons, pom poms and voodoo dolls. Pep club buses to the games this year were always filled with the rousing enthusiasm of the East Central girls.

The usual school day routine begins in the Gibbs home. George Gibbs and Mr. Webb have a serious talk at breakfast.

Three of the play's stars take time off from work to relax.

To the strains of wedding music, George and Emily are married.

The junior class presented its play "Our Town" in February. Under the directorship of Miss Carolyn Hale, Thornton Wilder's famous play was rewritten to fit the early 1900's in Tulsa. The play provided information on Tulsa's beginning and showed the everyday life of Tulsa people at the turn of the century. Scenes ranged from love and marriage to death.

Cub reporters serve three papers

The School Life staff, sponsored by Mrs. Armstrong and edited by Barbara Hughes, writes for School Life, the all-school newspaper. The staff tries to cover all functions at East Central including sports, news, and "features" along with the writing of the popular Bird's Eye View column. Every spring the School Life staff attends Press Day at the University of Tulsa where they enter all categories of news to compete for awards. Mrs. Armstrong usually is a panel leader on Press Day. The staff also is responsible for the "Boy and Girl of the Month" coverage in the Tribune and writing for the Southeast Times.

Editor and assistants are proud of the staff's published work.

Art Club thrives with new sponsor

East Central's Art Club with its new sponsor Mrs. Pam Pollard provides enlightenment and broader knowledge of the field of art. Along with publicizing and decorating for all school events, members made many plans for the year. They sponsored the Second Annual Art Festival displaying the work of the art classes. Also on their agenda was a tour and lecture at the Philbrook Art Museum. Leading the club are King Caryl Simpkins, Vice-King Sharon Wright, Duke Cathy Vicks, Lord Fred Thornbrugh, and Court Jester Bruce Safreed with Janice Gibson and Vicky Dirrim, Executioners.

Officers of the E.C. Library Club are: Jeanie Graham, President; Dixie Kyle, Vice-Pres.; Paula Waddel, Secretary; Barbara Willcox, Treasurer; Carolyn Milleson, Chaplain; Cathy Vick, Historian; and Bob Reedy Parliamentarian. East Central is honored to have a state and city officer of Oklahoma Student Librarian's Association. Bob Reedy is President of the Tulsa District and Pat Collings is State Secretary. The objectives of the Library Club are to promote the use of library facilities and materials, and to teach students the fundamentals of librarianship.

Jr. Red Cross fulfills needs of others

Members provide useful service.

East Central's chapter of Red Cross has a full schedule of activities this year. Included on the calendar are paper drives to benefit the Brick House, the hosting of a birthday and bingo party at the County Farm in April, and Christmas gifts for children. November is the time for the annual membership drive, which was climaxed by a lively victory dance following the football game with Kelley. Membership stands at an impressive 100. Many of these members attended the meeting at Red Cross Headquarters to view emergency equipment and visit the blood center. This year's projects are co-ordinated by sponsor, Mrs. Taylor; prexy, Don Gallier; vice-prexy, Doug Dodd; secretary, Brenda Barnes; and treasurer, Ronda Horton.

Officers and committee chairmen plan fund raising and service projects.

Leaders guide an active club. Don Gallier and Mrs. Taylor consult on upcoming activities.

Spanish Club promotes understanding

The "Sights and Sounds" of Spain and Spanish-speaking countries are enjoyed by the members of "El Circulo Espanol." At monthly meetings its members enjoy the sound of Spanish music, Spanish games and special guest speakers. Insight is gained of the people, customs, arts, and literature of Spain and Latin-American countries. Under the direction of Florence Schupbach, a "Pinata" party in December and banquet in a Spanish restaurant highlights the year. Being a member of the Spanish Club helps students to enlarge their knowledge of the language, and learn to speak it more fluently.

Mrs. Florence Schupbach has sponsored the Spanish Club at East Central for five years.

The second year for the East Central Catalinas started with the election of officers. Elected president was Liz Geis; vice-president, Lynda Sturdevant; secretary-treasurer, Pam Mezel; publicity chairman, Rhonda Cochran, and Vicki Hutchens as program chairman. The membership has increased since last year with a total of 47 members, 36 of them are new, and 11 are returning for their second year. The theme of the program this year was "Flower Power." It was presented on April 10, 11, and 12, under the direction of the girls' Physical Education teacher, Mrs. Pat Holder, the sponsor of the club.

Future Teachers have active first year.

Future Teachers of America, new to East Central this year, was organized with a nucleus of 12 members, under the sponsorship of Mr. Wesley White. The club encourages future teachers in their chosen profession, and includes activities which reveal real problems which they may face and how they can render service to our youth. Officers are Larry Thomas, president, Diana Counts, vice president, Pam Day, secretary, and Rhonda Cochran, treasurer. Meetings were held twice a month with films and lectures which covered topics in all teaching areas.

Senior accomplishments

This year's senior class shows what can be accomplished through dedication and determination. With their class sponsor, Mr. O. D. Bell, and the Senior Board, the Cardinal seniors have launched many projects. With encouragement and guidance by hard-working officers of the senior class, Jim Gibson, President, Larry Hughes, Secretary-Treasurer, they helped to finance the Senior Prom through many fund-raising projects, such as sales of senior pins and tickets to their senior play presented in November.

With that final walk up the aisle, a chapter in the lives of all East Central seniors comes to its close. Since before the moment they first walk through the doors as Cardinals, they have been waiting for this day: the day when they would enter into the adult world. The time has come, and they will walk through the halls of East Central for the last time as students. These halls contain many memories, for seniors remember that scared, lost feeling on their first day as sophomores, the entrancement and the hard work involved in their junior year. Most of all they will remember this year, the realization of all their hopes for graduation.

Officers Direct a Successful Class

Capable and dedicated leadership is essential for the Junior class of '69 in order to accomplish their goals and aims as seniors. Junior class officers this year provide just such direction. President Randy Clark also led his class as a Sophomore, while this is Butch Sharp's second year as Vice-president. Secretary-Treasurer Vicki Hutchens is a busy member of East Central, with many activities such as varsity cheerleader. With advice from sponsor Mrs. Jean Cagle and consent from Junior Board members, these officers will lead the junior class in 1969 and make sure their decisions are carried out.

Juniors Motivate Interest

The junior class sponsors many activities through the year to help raise funds that will carry over to their senior year. Some of the activities are the concession stands at home basketball games, and the sale of plastic yearbook covers. Juniors also make a profit from the sale of senior rings. The main fund-raising project is the junior class play which was held the last of January.

In hopes that their plan will be successful, the Board has set up this system for two years. At the end of their senior year, those juniors who have earned the prescribed number of points by Senior Week will attend the Senior Dinner free. Junior Class Sponsors Play "Our Town."

The junior class proudly presented Thornton Wilder's play Our Town in January. The play was selected by the Junior Board and sponsor Mrs. Cagle and approved by the public performance committee. Miss Hale, East Central's new speech teacher, directed the play at the request of the Junior Board and their sponsor.

The story concerned life in a small New England town soon after the turn of the century. It was mainly about two families, the Gibbsses and Webbs, and centered on the romance of Emily Webb and George Gibbs. Judy Plowman, with the part of the Stage Manager, introduced the audience with the characters. The Webbs were portrayed by Debbie Hubbard and David Carlin. Bill Hall and Frances Sherman played Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs with Randy Clark as George and Ellen Harris and Vicki Hutchens sharing the role of Emily.

Concession Stands Help Support Juniors

Besides participating in many school projects, many juniors found time to make worthy contributions to school spirit and to provide leadership. In 1969 East Central's cheerleading spirit squad was dominated by Junior pepsters. Four of the six regulars, Susan Hartsell, Dianne Foster, Vicki Hutchens, and Liz Riggs, and two alternates, Dee Ann Hendricks, and Pam Alexander are outstanding members of the junior class at East Central. Also representing the class are two of the student council officers, Dianne Foster, parliamentarian, and Susan Hartsell, corresponding secretary, and four of the eight Cardinal majorettes, Kathy Southern, Ruthie Davidson, Roberta Brooks, Pam Hayes.

Vo-Tech Offers technical knowledge

One of the most eventful trips of the year for sophomores occurred early in December as the class toured Tulsa's growing Vocational-Technical School. Sophomores are better able to take advantage of the curriculum if they familiarize themselves with all its facilities before they enroll during their Junior year. About 100 sophomores daily, grouped by homerooms, made a tour of actual Vo-Tech classroom procedures, conducted by the school's counselors, who pointed out highlights of the curriculum from hairdressing and auto mechanics to the latest data processing activities.

Sophs admire their handiwork.

Sophs outline goals

For a new class beginning a new phase of life, leaders with a vision of how their class will attain goals set before them were needed. Sophs create pep.

The sophomore class of 1969 is one bustling with activity and interest. Led by B-squad cheerleaders, Diane Morgan, Denise Smith, Leslie Blevins, Gail Kirk, Kathy Jones, and Cheri Chaney, they have shown great pep and enthusiasm during all the games. Together with juniors and seniors, they worked selling AFS candy. Along with participating in other school functions, sophomores have made many plans of their own for this year. Their main fund-raising project, the class play, was supplemented with a second activity held in March.

Spotlight in 1969

In the spotlight this year for the Cardinals were Tom Stewart, and Terry Johnston, seniors, David Enix, junior, and Jim Shelton, sophomore. Because of their exceptional playing abilities, the Tulsa Tribune voted these boys Linemen of the Week. East Central was represented in the All Conference game this year by Mike Batchlear, Tom Stewart, Terry Johnston, and Steve Wiley, all seniors. Showing that sophomores are coming up in all school activities was Jim Shelton. Jim scored more points than any player on the fighting Cardinal team. Leading defensive points this year were Eddie Woolever, senior, David Enix, and Eddie Echalk.

East Central's driving sprit showed through the ranks of the B-Squad this year as the team soundly defeated local schools by a 5-3-1 record. Under the guidance of B-Squad coach Jim Wagoner, the Cards defeated Webster twice, Sapulpa, Memorial, and Bartlesville. Credited with the most outstanding backfield work and scoring were sophomores Steve West, Mark Polumbus, Danny Brumble, Jim Shelton, Bobby Hurry, and Eddie Adams. Offensive blocking was turned in by David Cole and Dane Cearley, as Jim Shelton led in defensive points. Hopes for next year were set by the flashy defensive work by Randy Nicholas, Mike Pregler, Eddy Adams, and Jerry McGrew.

Triumph during 1969.

East Central's fighting Cagers enjoyed the prestige of one of the most victorious years ever experienced. The Cards triumphed over such powerful teams as Memorial, McLain and Washington, winning 16 games out of 21. The highlight of the year pitted the Cardinals against Webster's Warriors in a hard fought game for the coveted first place Conference rank. Although the Cards lost the game, 71-69 in overtime, they still retained co-championship title in the Magic Empire Conference. The flag of Victory sailed high as the Cards prepared to face Hale in the Regional playoffs to determine which team would go to State. Although this outcome was not determined by yearbook deadline time, East Central Salutes its Champion Cardinals.

Lacy Lanier works for position to make a basket.

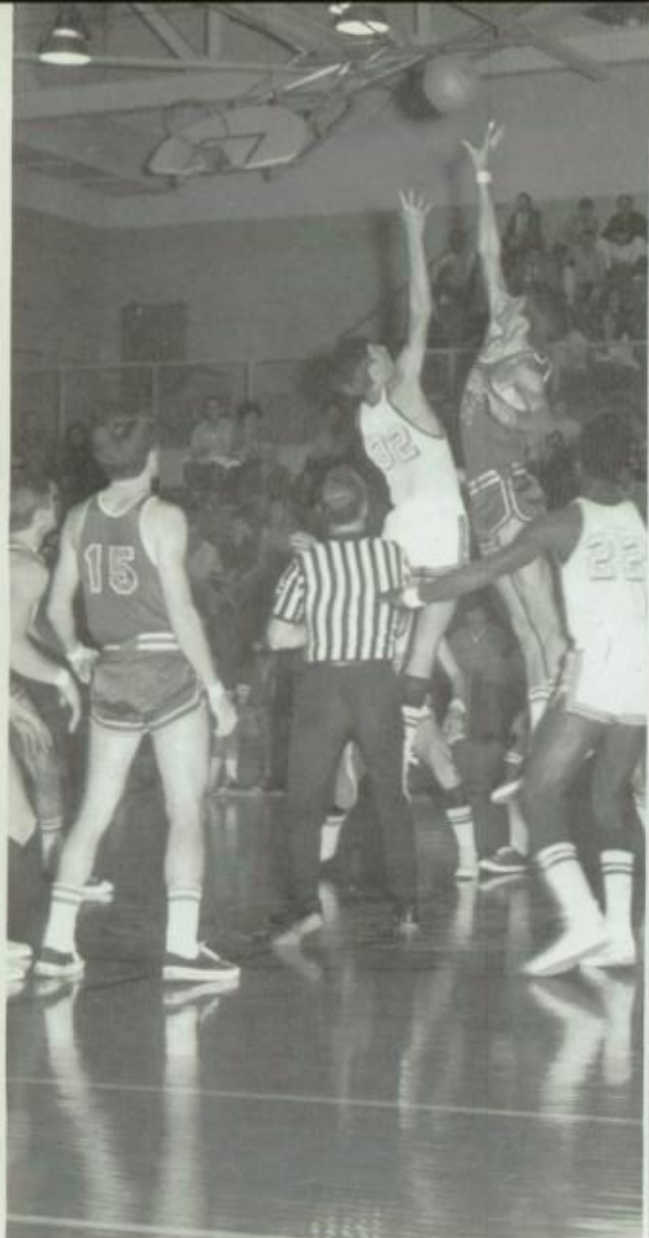

Tom Sellers goes up to score two more points for the Cards.

EC scores against the Sooners!

The EC B-squad basketball team beat the McLain Scots twice with a score of 52-48, and 70-58. The B-squad players won over Bartlesville in a tight game of 53-52. Playing against the Edison Eagles was not easy, as the Cards soon discovered, after a crucial 56 points was scored against Edison's 54. Holding the highest point average on the Cardinal B-squad team is Steve West. Steve is the highest scoring sophomore B-squad player in the recent school history. Steve had an average of 14.9 points a game. Two other exceptional players on the team were juniors, David Waggoner, averaging 10.1 points a game, and David Kirkhuff, averaging 8.8 points.

Sprinters set record.

With a new track and a second place conference victory, Cardinal speedsters, track and cross country, are establishing a new record of popularity in the field of sports. The cross country squad, paced by senior lettermen Frank Riggs and Gary Hobbie, set a resounding 4-1 dual record, defeating Holland Hall, McLain, Booker T. Washington, and Bartlesville Sooner before losing to Bishop Kelly. School records were set by Mike Hall and Scott Dougall at 10.27. Scott ranked eighth in the Magic Empire Conference ratings, while Frank Riggs finished tenth, a new high for East Central.

Tennis stars compete.

Six returning lettermen boosted East Central's 1969 tennis rating in Magic Empire competition, under the direction of third year coach Jim Wagoner. Danny Call, Wayne Curzadd, Terry Schmidt, Gary Stansell, James Hammar, and Bill Hall were in top form during their senior year, competing in the All-City Tournament and the Magic Empire Conference meet at Tracy Park. Danny Call set a blistering record during his junior year as he finished a semi-finalist in the Magic Empire. Cardinal tennis players begin the season in February, practicing at home court McClure Park and ranking for top positions by individual round robin playoffs. Each player competes in single and dual matches in finals.

Boys and Girls of the Month

September

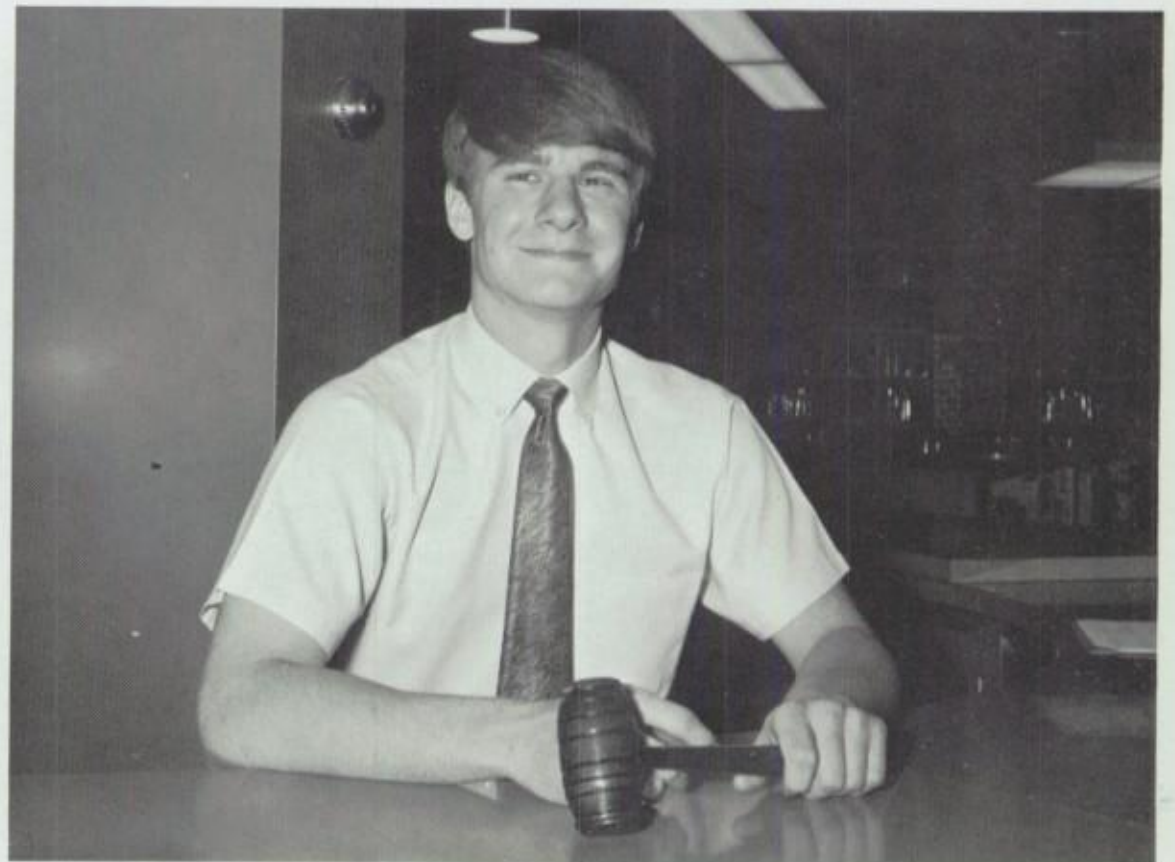

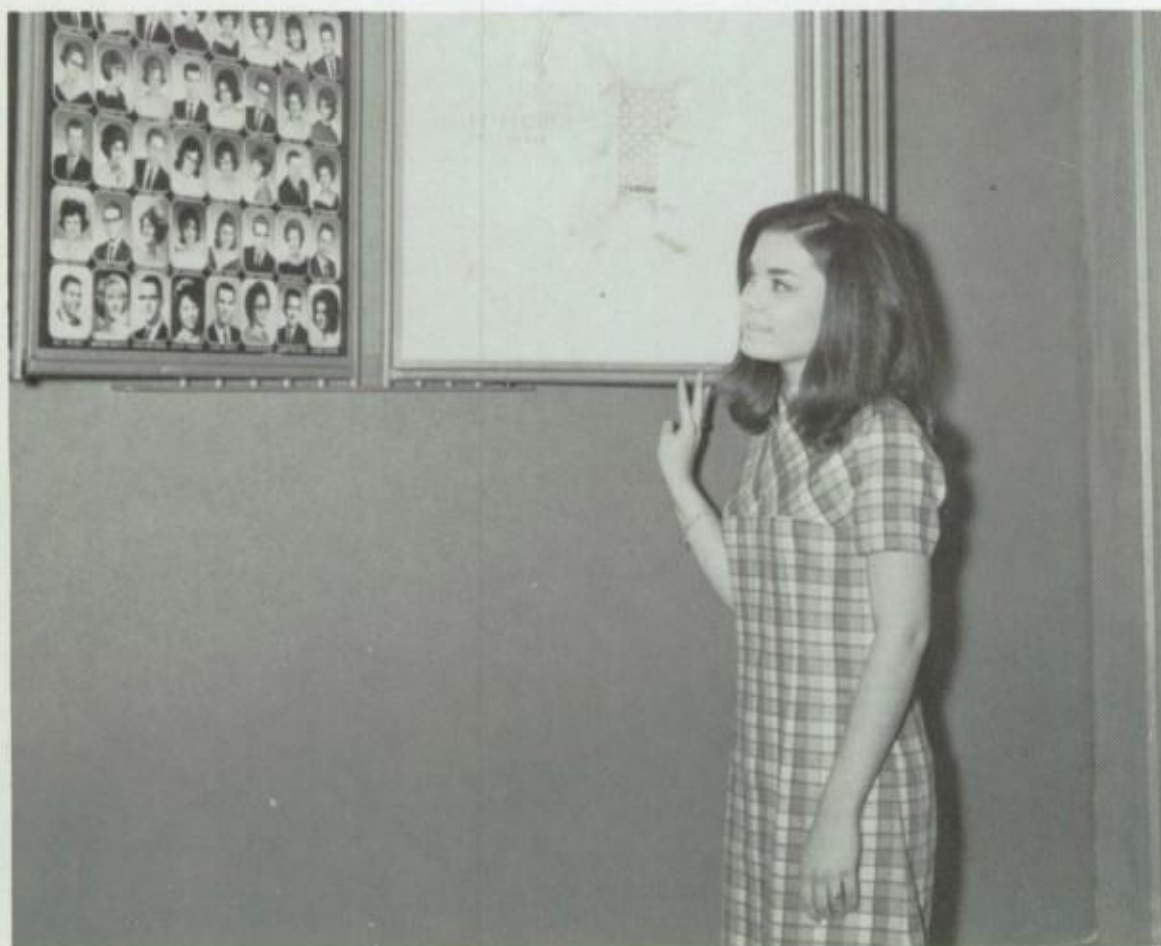

Lloyd and Liz

They wore the look of leadership.

Walter Lloyd Johnson was selected Boy of the Month for September. He served as class president his sophomore year and has actively participated on Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Boards. His sports activities included football, baseball, and wrestling. In addition to being Student Council President his senior year, Lloyd belonged to National Honor Society and Jr. Civitans.

Elizabeth Ann Geis served in Student Council and held the office of Recording Secretary her senior year. She was representative to Girl's State. Liz was cheerleader and member of Catalinas both junior and senior years. She was a member of National Honor Society, Senior Board, Interscholastic Committee, and chosen "Best All-Around" in the Senior Who's Who.

Michael Gene Batchlear, Boy of the Month, is a member in Mu Alpha Theta, National Honor Society, and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He lettered in baseball and was tri-captain of the football team. Mike was elected all-conference, All-City, Honorable Mention All-State, and second in the "Back of the Year" contest of the Magic Empire Conference. Cynthia Sue Phillips, October's Girl of the Month, was in Pep Club for three years. As a junior, she was Junior Attendant, "Neatest" in Who's Who, and served on Junior Board. Cindy was editor of the "Cardinal" yearbook and a member of the National Honor Society. She was chosen "Best Looking" girl in Senior Who's Who and Senior Attendant to Miss EC III.

Tom and Barbara
They led the sound of excitement.

Tom Bradford Stewart was a student council representative in his sophomore and junior years. He participated in football for three years and was chosen for the lineman of the week in his senior year. He was a three year member of Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Junior Civitans. Tom was chosen wittiest all three of his years at East Central.

Barbara Sue Hughes' initiative and personality won her November Girl of the Month. She was also chosen Miss East Central III, AAA Basketball Queen of the Miami Tourney, Most Likely to Succeed, and secretary of her class. She served as V-President of Pep Club her junior year and President her senior year. Barbara was on both the junior and senior boards.

December

Hervé and Donna
They saw ties of friendship at work.

Herve' Andre Pitard, Boy of the Month for December, is East Central's third foreign exchange student from Rennes, France. While attending his school in France, Herve' was a scout member and played on the volleyball team. During his year at E. C. he was on Student Council, served on the AFS committee and spoke at assemblies at his school and other high schools.

Donna Scott was chosen Girl of the Month for December. During her sophomore year she was a member of Red Cross, and Thespians. She was the Jr. Class Secretary and participated in the class play. Donna has been a three year member of the Pep Club, Spanish Club, and Student Council. She was a member of Senior Board and a National Honor Society Officer.

Robert Arthel Slagle, Jr., Boy of the Month of January was active in Student Council, serving as a representative for three years. He was a senior delegate to the 1968 State Convention. He was president of VICA and a member of Junior Civitan. Robbie was also selected as Neatest as a sophomore and Best-Looking in his junior and senior years. Donna Marie Erwin was chosen Girl of the Month for January. She has been a three year member of the Student Council and Pep Club. Donna was active in Future Secretaries of America, Catalinas, and Intra-School Pep Council during her senior year. Donna was one of two juniors on the cheering squad and was captain of the A-squad in her senior year.

Larry and Cela
They saw the results of determination.

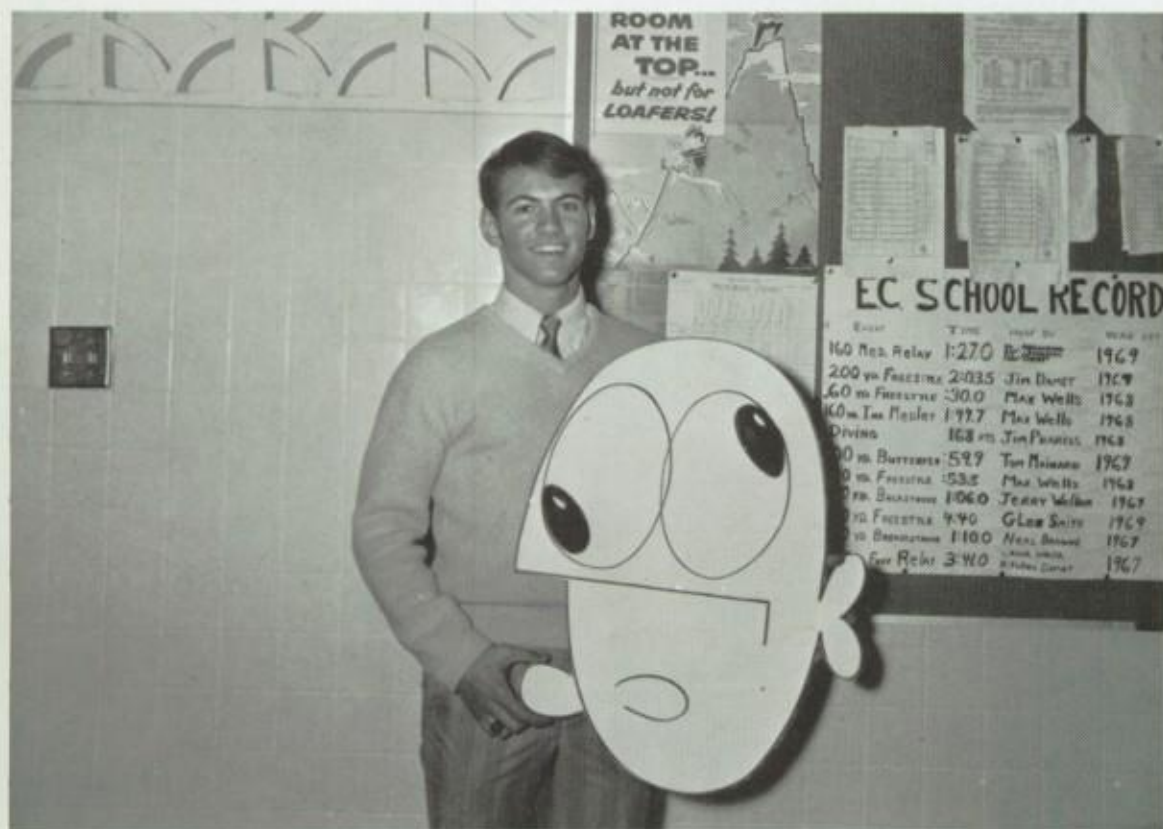

Larry Ernst has been an active member and Vice-President of the Student Council. He was President of the National Honor Society, FCA President and Vice-President of Mu Alpha Theta. He has been a three year member and two year letterman of the football team. Larry's future plans include the Colorado School of Mining and an engineering vocation. Cela Frances James was a Student Council representative for three years and she served on various committees. She was active in Pep Club and served as Cardinal Bird in her senior year. She held the lead in the junior and senior plays. The summer before her senior year she traveled in Europe under the auspices of A.I.F.S. Cela plans to study speech therapy at OSU.

April

Max and Lynn
They illustrated pride of the senior class.

Max Wells, April's Boy of the Month, has been an active member of the Student Council for two years, and was Treasurer the past year. Max lettered in swimming during his sophomore year, and was co-captain his junior and senior years. He was an escort to the Band Queen and band captain in his senior year. Max also designed the swimming team "fish".

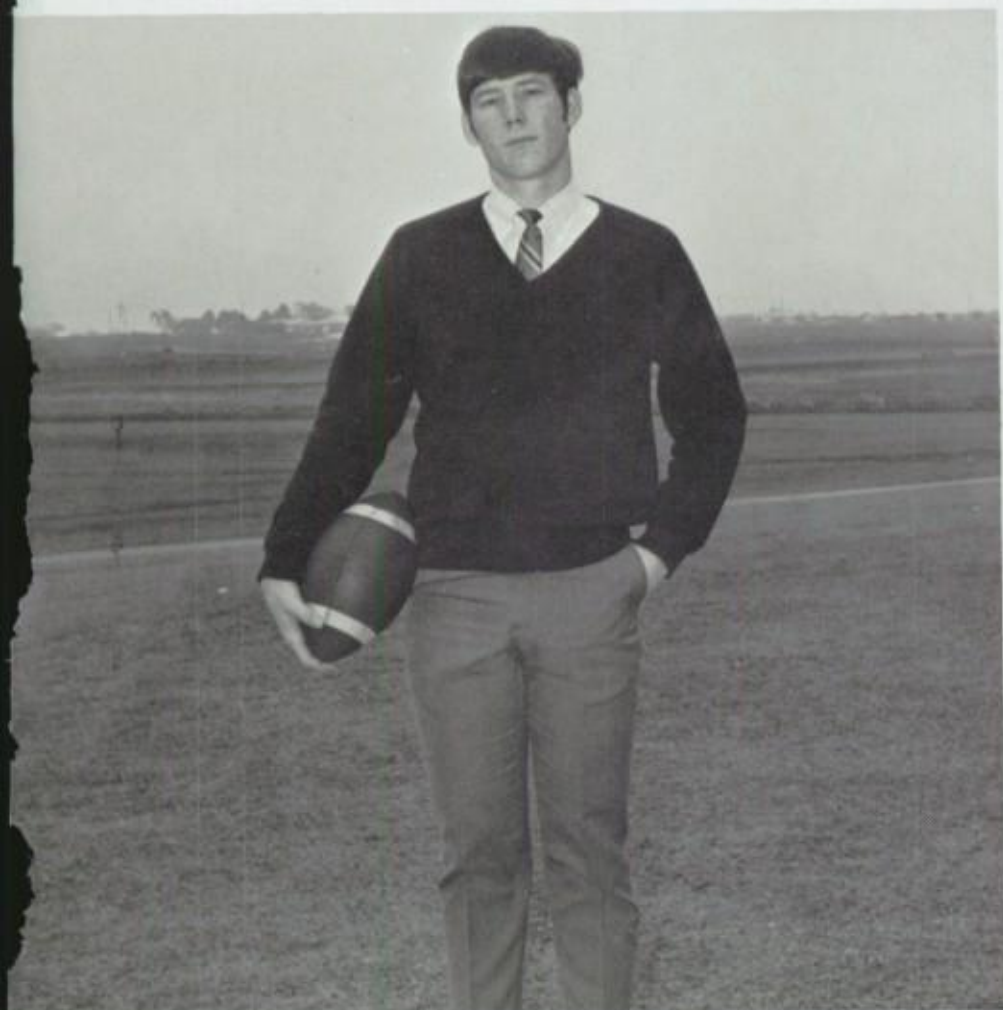

Girl of the Month for April, Lynn Greene has been active in many school organizations. As a sophomore she belonged to Mu Alpha Theta. She was a member of the Spanish Club and Secretary of National Honor Society of which she was a two-year member. Lynn also participated in Pep Club and the Student Council as a representative and a committee member.

Steve Wiley, chosen Boy of the Month for May, has been active in many school activities. He was an active member of Junior Civitan and the Junior Red Cross in his Senior year. He has lettered twice in football and once in baseball. He made the second team in All-Conference football and has obtained Honorable Mention in All-City football. Debbie Chapman, Girl of the Month for May, has been active in Pep Club for three years, Treasurer in her senior year. She was an active member of National Honor Society and served on Senior Board. She served on the Prop Committee for the Senior play and on costumes for the Junior play. Debbie plans to major in Elementary Education at O.S.U. at Stillwater.

Preview of 1969 favorites.

Two popular sections of the yearbook, Who's Who and Hall of Fame, come to the 1969 Cardinal with the zest and dignity of long tradition. Who's Who positions are decided exclusively by student choice, the vote of confidence for the classmate with the winning smile or the constant good grooming or the alert sense of humor. The most prized title is the Senior "Most Likely to Succeed," position, for this boy and girl often have all traits combined—neatness, wit, a pleasing appearance, and a well-rounded personality—which have netted them the highest trophy of Cardinal popularity. Hall of Fame members are outstanding seniors, selected by a faculty board. These seniors have contributed to the total view of school life, with qualities of leadership, academic ability and civic awareness. Since the total number of Hall of Fame members may not exceed ten percent of the graduating class, these seniors are to be commended for their contributions to East Central. Cards honor Who's Who and Hall of Fame.

Yearbook dedication
The fighting Cardinal Cagers of 1969.

We've got the team!
and
We've got the coach!

A year to remember!

1969: Of all the sights and sounds this year, the most welcome sight to victory-hungry eyes was the power and precision of East Central's Basketball team, geared to the sound of roaring Cardinal fans, as the Cagers swept to first-place berth in the Magic Empire Conference. The word spread early in December that the "Cards are looking good." The daily papers rang the word through the city as Coach Bill Stephens, the big-barrage brothers, Lacy and Roger Lanier, the entire vanguard of the A-squad 16 swung into action, pulverizing the efforts of local and state competitors. We had the coach. We had the team. And we had the most thrilling year we ever felt or lived in the world of sports and action at East Central. In appreciation and with grateful tribute, the staff of the 1969 Cardinal yearbook dedicates to the Team of the Year, The Fighting Cardinal Cagers of 1969, and all their loyal, supporting fans of East Central's student body. And now...

Editor's Farewell

As the graduating seniors of East Central, we now look back on the many wonderful memories that were shared by our fellow students and faculty members during three significant years of our lives. Though high school years will never come again, the "now" of them will linger on for years to come. We extend a special word of thanks to Mr. Bell, our senior class sponsor, Mr. Payne, our principal, our counselors, and teachers. And most especially we offer our gratitude to our parents for their love and guidance which has prepared us for the future.
